~Laurent Fabius

Shopkeepers are not bankers.

~Laurent Fabius

I want to make an extremely strong appeal to those who abstained. Vote. It takes five minutes and then it's for five years.

~Laurent Fabius

France on its own cannot impose its point of view. But neither should it give up on its demands. With a clear vote for change France will be in a strong position.

~Laurent Fabius

The EU should help the emergence of "organized multipolarity" in the currently non-polar world.

~Laurent Fabius

If the US economic landing is soft there will be no consequences (for Europe).

~Laurent Fabius

But Maastricht was not the end of history. It was a first step towards a Europe of growth, of employment, a social Europe. That was the vision of Francois Mitterrand. We are far from that now.

~Laurent Fabius

This revision of the Constitution will not be perfect. But at least the Constitution will not be inflexible. It will be a step towards the Social Europe which we wish.

~Laurent Fabius

This assumes an upward revision of the European Budget, which is precisely what Jacques Chirac refuses to do. On the contrary, he has demanded a reduction.

~Laurent Fabius

We on the left who are pro-European and Internationalist wish to unite the peoples under a social model.

~Laurent Fabius

The single currency should allow the European Union, and therefore France, to balance its monetary strength with the United States. It should help us adjust to the development of China.
