No great deed, private or public, has ever been undertaken in a bliss of certainty.

~Leon Wieseltier

The Internet is like closing time at a blue-collar bar in Boston. Everyone's drunk and ugly and they're going to pass out in a few minutes.

~Leon Wieseltier

Incorruptibility by money is the old story... Now it's incorruptibility by media.

~Leon Wieseltier

Her book about the money in sex gives you the feeling of the sex in money.

~Leon Wieseltier

There are times when the power of language is not the power that is needed.

~Leon Wieseltier

There are moral religious people and moral secular people, immoral religious people and immoral secular people.

~Leon Wieseltier

A thoughtless citizen of a democracy is a delinquent citizen of a democracy.

~Leon Wieseltier

American Jews, like Americans, have a very consumerist attitude toward their identity: they pick and choose the bits of this and that they like.

~Leon Wieseltier

The velocity and volume on the Web are so great that nothing is forgotten and nothing is remembered.

~Leon Wieseltier

I hear it said of somebody that he is leading a double life. I think to myself: Just two?

~Leon Wieseltier

Use the new technologies for the old purposes.

~Leon Wieseltier

I do not value religion chiefly for its morality.

~Leon Wieseltier

The world invited me many places.

~Leon Wieseltier

What matters to me is that one identifies one's genuine obsessions, one's genuine commitments, one's genuine appetites, one pursues them seriously and far.

~Leon Wieseltier

Dilettantism is the sort of thing one must avoid.

~Leon Wieseltier
