The world is like a great empty dream. Why should one toil away one's life?

~Li Bai

Heaven is high, Earth Wide. Bitter between them flies my sorrow.

~Li Bai

Shade and light are different in every valley.

~Li Bai

All the birds have flown up and gone; A lonely cloud floats leisurely by.
We never tire of looking at each other - Only the mountain and I.

~Li Bai

I bow in reverence to the white cloud.

~Li Bai

To find pleasure in life, make the most of the spring.

~Li Bai

Forever and forever and forever

~Li Bai

The paired butterflies are already yellow with August
Over the grass in the West garden; They hurt me. I grow older.

~Li Bai

The living is a passing traveler; The dead, a man come home.

~Li Bai

Gently I stir a white feather fan, With open shirt sitting in a green wood.
I take off my cap and hang it on a jutting stone; A wind from the pine-tree trickles on my bare head.

~Li Bai

Beneath the blossoms with a pot of wine,
No friends at hand, so I poured alone;
I raised my cup to invite the moon,
Turned to my shadow, and we became three.

~Li Bai

The birds have vanished into the sky,
and now the last cloud drains away.
We sit together, the mountain and me,
until only the mountain remains.

~Li Bai

Since Life is but a Dream, Why toil to no avail?

~Li Bai

Growing older, I love only quietness:
who need be concerned with the things of this world? Looking back, what better plan than this: returning to the grove.

~Li Bai

From the walls of Baidi high in the coloured dawn
To Jiangling by night-fall is three hundred miles, Yet monkeys are still calling on both banks behind me To my boat these ten thousand mountains away.
