I love writing. I love to write, and I would eventually love to have some of my work produced.

~Liana Liberato

I hate taking myself seriously. It drives me crazy!

~Liana Liberato

I don't ever want to be bored, doing the same thing from 9 to 5. I've always loved pretending and being someone different.

~Liana Liberato

There are always ups and downs, no matter how successful you are.

~Liana Liberato

I tried softball and soccer. I just didn't take as much of a liking to it as I did sitting in a movie theater and watching people recreate a story, and doing it myself, as well.

~Liana Liberato

I like the idea of having a little bit of a mystery about me.

~Liana Liberato

Theater is the only thing I always came back to. When I was 9, I asked my mom if I could be on TV. She was like, "Well, okay. You can try."

~Liana Liberato

I always want the audience to identify with my character in some way. I mean, sometimes you'll get characters that aren't very identifiable. Sometimes you can't relate to your character at all.

~Liana Liberato

I think it's important to keep the audience interested. But the best advice that I've gotten is to live in the moment. Sometimes you can get too into your head when you're in a scene.

~Liana Liberato

I don't think I'd ever want to direct. I don't think I have as much discipline to direct as I would like to have, and I don't want my hair color to not go grey during that process.

~Liana Liberato

I don't ever want an acting to be a job. I want this to be an outlet for my creativity, and something I just simply enjoy doing. I don't ever want it to become something too serious.

~Liana Liberato

Acting is still fun. It's still not even a career for me. I think the second it becomes a career is when I should stop.

~Liana Liberato

I think the great thing about acting is that it's not all the same. You're constantly challenged and constantly pushed to your limit. It's nice to see how your body can adapt to these things.

~Liana Liberato

I love Abby Lee Miller. Honestly, if there's such a thing as past lives, I was definitely a dancer.

~Liana Liberato

Some people say that they read the first 20 pages, and then decide if they want to do the film or not. But, I have to read the entire thing cause anything can change in a script.

~Liana Liberato

I think it would be great to play a superhero. That will be one of my goals.

~Liana Liberato

I love the Walking Dead, but I dont wanna be an actual prominent character on the show. I just wanna be a zombie.
