Too often, we spend our days thinking about what we don't have rather than what we do have. Be grateful every day.

~Lisa Ling

There's so much grey to every story - nothing is so black and white.

~Lisa Ling

The best education I have ever received was through travel.

~Lisa Ling

Refrain from being too judgmental. You'll often be surprised by what people have to offer.

~Lisa Ling

Try to accomplish things you have always dreamt of while you can. I know it sounds cliché, but the biggest lesson I have learned is that life is precious; enjoy it while it lasts.

~Lisa Ling

We have to start seeing people as human beings. Our entire humanity depends on that.

~Lisa Ling

We live in a culture where we're bombarded with so much noise and so much insecurity.

~Lisa Ling

I like crunchy things like Baked Lays.

~Lisa Ling

My hope is that I can somehow raise the level of consciousness about world events.

~Lisa Ling

I think we need to take a look at the technology, but not depend on it for things that require humanity.

~Lisa Ling

Coming from an Asian culture, I was always taught to respect my elders, to be a better listener than a talker.

~Lisa Ling

I'm determined to raise a strong girl.

~Lisa Ling

There's a huge piece of humanity that's missing - a huge piece - and our [American] culture is infant, comparatively speaking, to these folks who have been around for thousands of years.

~Lisa Ling

I have a zillion bottles of hot sauce. I love Trader Joe's jalapeno. The whole right side of my fridge is filled with hot sauce.

~Lisa Ling

I never run hills. My quads are already big enough. I don't run to build muscle; I do it for cardio.

~Lisa Ling

There are so many kids in this world, and in this country, that need homes. And so we're perfectly content to look into adoption one day, if for some reason we aren't able to have a biological child.

~Lisa Ling

We have had a long held myth of American exceptionalism.

~Lisa Ling

I used to be so twig skinny that I couldn't eat enough, because I was just naturally skinny. Until I went to China.

~Lisa Ling

We all need to provide the checks and balances for democracy.

~Lisa Ling

As a culture women are brought up to be fundamentally insecure.

~Lisa Ling

Our time on Earth is so random.

~Lisa Ling

My husband and I try to spend some time every night that I'm home talking without distractions.

~Lisa Ling

I honestly never had the biological need to reproduce until I met my husband. But by the same token, even if we were unsuccessful, we were totally okay with adopting.

~Lisa Ling

I fancy myself as being a fairly competent person.

~Lisa Ling

You should treat your marriage like a business that you wouldn't want to let fail.

~Lisa Ling

What a lot of people don't know, because in a lot of TV and movies, they have a lot of men talking about computers - it was a woman who invented the first compiler!

~Lisa Ling

I hadn't wanted to have a kid until I met my partner.

~Lisa Ling

I hope my desire to travel so much isn't forever because it's not the most conducive lifestyle for a relationship or a family by any means.

~Lisa Ling

I don't know that I'm going to entirely do cloth diapers. I'd like to be ambitious about it, but in all honesty, I can't say that I will.

~Lisa Ling

We've got to stop thinking everybody who is Muslim is a terrorist.

~Lisa Ling

I'm a big Ping-Pong addict. I love it.

~Lisa Ling

I had a planned C-section and I cried the entire day before I had the baby.

~Lisa Ling

The city of Oia is the most magnificently romantic place I've ever been.

~Lisa Ling

I am a crazy online shopper. My husband always jokes, Another box arrived! Airplanes used to be my sanctuary for reading books, but now I have to peruse Gilt sales.

~Lisa Ling

Hospitality is one of the things the Afghan population is famous for, but nobody says that anymore. Now they're terrorists - and they're not. They're people.

~Lisa Ling

I don't trust lawyers and journalists.
