With fatal, fatal Love a girlhood goes.

~Louise Imogen Guiney

A guest should be permitted to graze, as it were, in the pastures of his host's kindness, left even to his own devices, like a rational being, and handsomely neglected.

~Louise Imogen Guiney

[Death:] The one inexorable thing!

~Louise Imogen Guiney

Children are born optimists and we slowly educate them out of their heresy

~Louise Imogen Guiney

Quotations (such as have point and lack triteness) from the great old authors are an act of reverence on the part of the quoter, and a blessing to a public grown superficial and external.

~Louise Imogen Guiney

High above hate I dwell, O storms! farewell.

~Louise Imogen Guiney

The fears of what may come to pass, I cast them all away, Among the clover scented grass, Among the new-mown hay.

~Louise Imogen Guiney

Life is a breathing-space between two eternities, a holiday with appalling realities behind and before.

~Louise Imogen Guiney

Character demonstrates itself in trifles.

~Louise Imogen Guiney

I am not in the least given to any violent interest in womankind, however, such as has addled the country's brains of late. Give me a manandwoman world: 'tis good enough!

~Louise Imogen Guiney

The hand betrays the heart.

~Louise Imogen Guiney

Youth, ah, Youth! all men's desire and sorrow.

~Louise Imogen Guiney

Idleness, simon-pure, from which all manner of good springs like seed from a fallow soil, is sure to be misnamed and misconstrued.

~Louise Imogen Guiney

My own passion, all my life, has been non-collecting.

~Louise Imogen Guiney

Youth is slipping, dripping, pearl on pearl, away.

~Louise Imogen Guiney

Family traits, like murder, will out. Nature has but so many molds.

~Louise Imogen Guiney

Very few can be trusted with an education.
