Losing an illusion makes you wiser than finding a truth.

~Ludwig Borne

Getting rid of a delusion makes us wiser than getting hold of a truth.

~Ludwig Borne

Women are most adorable when they are afraid; that's why they frighten so easily.

~Ludwig Borne

The secret of power is the knowledge that others are more cowardly than you are.

~Ludwig Borne

Governments are the sails, the people the wind, the country is the ship and time is the sea.

~Ludwig Borne

You are not loved when you are lovely, but when you are loved you are found to be lovely.

~Ludwig Borne

Because I was born a slave, I love liberty more than you.

~Ludwig Borne

Only the suppressed word is dangerous.

~Ludwig Borne

History teaches us virtue, but nature never ceases to teachh us vice.

~Ludwig Borne

If you must hate, if hatred is the leaven of your life, which alone can give flavor, then hate what should be hated: falsehood, violence, selfishness.

~Ludwig Borne

The difference between Liberty and liberties is as great as God and gods.

~Ludwig Borne

Nothing is lasting but change; nothing perpetual but death.

~Ludwig Borne

The most dangerous person is the fearful; he is the most to be feared.

~Ludwig Borne

Ministers fall like buttered slices of bread: usually on their good side.

~Ludwig Borne

Nought endures but change.
