You never know who will see your images hanging. And I like that. I think you never really have control over the things that you do.

~Luis Gonzalez

I think it's impossible to know the destiny of things.

~Luis Gonzalez

I'd prefer to invite the artists simply to work and have fun with Guatemalan artists. To share missions of life. Maybe that is more important than seeing an exhibition.

~Luis Gonzalez

I think my relationship with life has changed - I want to make more complex images than before. Complex in the sense that I try to put in a lot of information, sometimes contradictory information.

~Luis Gonzalez

I am an architect. I try to feel the transparency in contemporary buildings and I try to understand the transparency in Zen poetry. I just want to mix all those things.

~Luis Gonzalez

I prefer to give a dollar to a thousand people.

~Luis Gonzalez

Usually the Indian people are outsiders who have to look up at the people who look down.

~Luis Gonzalez

To have a museum like the Museum of Modern Art in New York is to have power. I don't have any interest in being the director of an institution that has power.

~Luis Gonzalez

I want to be a contemporary artist and at the same time a romantic!

~Luis Gonzalez

I am a postmodern romantic. I try to use their way to photograph, and at the same time, incorporate the problems that I feel in a country like Guatemala.

~Luis Gonzalez

If you can explain a poem, it is not a poem. Poetry has to be inexplicable.
