Everything we do affects other people.

~Luke Ford

Acting in anger and hatred throughout my life, I frequently precipitated what I feared most, the loss of friendships and the need to rely upon the very people I'd abused.

~Luke Ford

I knew in my gut that there was something wrong with a system that couldn't fire its incompetents, and I had my share of incompetent college teachers.

~Luke Ford

The Seventh Day Adventist Church believes that it was specially chosen by God to prepare the world for the Second Coming of His Son Jesus.

~Luke Ford

I believed that English-speaking people had a divine mission to civilize the world by making it western, democratic and Christian.

~Luke Ford

One in 150 kids is autistic these days. The autism spectrum is growing.

~Luke Ford

I now attend non-orthodox synagogues, and study little during the secular week.

~Luke Ford

I learned from my Adventist upbringing that the biggest sins were sexual.

~Luke Ford

Looking back, I wince at the careless way I tossed out my opinions.

~Luke Ford

I teethered on books of heroes such as Winston Churchill, Abraham Lincoln and King David.

~Luke Ford

I'm not jumping into anything fast. I'm an actor that likes to choose my work and there's an element of good taste to my work.

~Luke Ford

I've often thought that my lack of intimacy with those around me is the fault of those around me.

~Luke Ford

I have decided to follow in my sinful ways, and have largely abandoned the increasingly religious life I was leading over the previous months, including several hours of Talmudic study a day.

~Luke Ford

I decided to take God and organized religion seriously, and to reject the secular life which in my teens had looked attractive because it allowed me to act in any way that I wanted.

~Luke Ford

I've had horror movies thrown at me and I just don't want to do any because violence isn't really good for society.

~Luke Ford

Whether you do a play in front of 100 people or a movie that one billion people see, you're still affecting people.

~Luke Ford

At the time I perceived most religious men, particularly the pastors with all their talk about love, faith and relationship, as effeminate.

~Luke Ford

At times during high school and college I wished to be a sportswriter.

~Luke Ford

I did not want to reject religion as nonsense because life seemed to have no ultimate purpose without it, and most of the good people I knew were Christians.

~Luke Ford

The thing about me is I have a great little acting school. I teach about 125 students.

~Luke Ford

I'm one of the guys who wants to watch the film completely done, with special effects, sound and music, because I tend to get disappointed if I watch it not fully done.

~Luke Ford

In my right-wing politics of the time, I held that unemployment was usually the fault of the unemployed.

~Luke Ford

My habit of glorifying things far away in space and time, also contributed to my social isolation.

~Luke Ford

I loved history, particularly of the British, American and Old Testament kind.
