Millennials expect to create a better future, using the collaborative power of digital technology.

~Mal Fletcher

Millennials aspire to marry the blue skies thinking of the Boomers with the grass-roots mindset of GenX.

~Mal Fletcher

Lasting solutions to many social problems will be found only as we each learn to say, 'I am society'.

~Mal Fletcher

Progress must not become progressivism, where success is measured only by achieving pragmatic results.

~Mal Fletcher

Cohesion means respectful diversity, which is about much more than the weak-kneed tolerance.

~Mal Fletcher

Nothing is more dangerous for society's future than having its young people grow old before their time.

~Mal Fletcher

Building a better future will depend on our ability to appreciate generational differences.

~Mal Fletcher

Digital gadgets often plug us into an environment that's more cluttered than the real world.

~Mal Fletcher

Our greatest resource is the human resource.

~Mal Fletcher

People can only function at their best if they know that what they do actually matters beyond the corporate front door.

~Mal Fletcher

Technology works best when it facilitates human hope, activism, engagement & intervention.

~Mal Fletcher

Celebrity is more than a culture today; it is an industry, complete with fame factories.

~Mal Fletcher

Wrinkles ought to be worn as a badge of honour, as a mark of survival if not wisdom.

~Mal Fletcher

Ethically, what one generation tolerates the next may treat as normal.

~Mal Fletcher

Sex education should be 'relationship education', focusing on how to achieve long-term commitment.

~Mal Fletcher

Marketers reinforce the idea - a false one - that celebrity is available to everyone.

~Mal Fletcher

Confidence, not paper or digital money, is the key currency in a capitalist system.

~Mal Fletcher

The idea that education can ever be value-neutral is absurd.

~Mal Fletcher

Ensuring a healthy future means investing in the generation who will carry that future.

~Mal Fletcher

Is the future of humanity really about clouds you can't see and chips you can't eat?

~Mal Fletcher

For any alliance to work, the focus must remain on solving specific problems.

~Mal Fletcher

Societies don't become less self-indulgent; people do.

~Mal Fletcher

We are products not of our technologies, but of our choices about how to use them.

~Mal Fletcher

Ours is an age that's often obsessed with knowledge at the expense of wisdom.

~Mal Fletcher

People no longer want to see themselves primarily as consumers, but as activists.

~Mal Fletcher

The groups of which we are a part impact our decisions and our decisions shape the future.

~Mal Fletcher

Anonymity is not necessarily something to shun; we don't have to achieve celebrity to make a mark on the world.

~Mal Fletcher

GenXers naturally bristle at hierarchies, but thrive on partnerships.

~Mal Fletcher

In media terms, the camera always lies, providing an edited version of reality.
