I was a queen, and you took away my crown; a wife, and you killed my husband; a mother, and you deprived me of my children. My blood alone remains: take it, but do not make me suffer long.

~Marie Antoinette

If the people have no bread, let them eat cake.

~Marie Antoinette

There is nothing new except what has been forgotten.

~Marie Antoinette

Courage! I have shown it for years; think you I shall lose it at the moment when my sufferings are to end?

~Marie Antoinette

Marie Antoinette. Her last words were, "Pardon me sir. I did not mean to do it," to a man whose foot she stepped on before she was executed by the guillotine

~Marie Antoinette

I wasn't raised, I was built.

~Marie Antoinette

Letting everyone down would be my greatest unhappiness.

~Marie Antoinette

And I will make thee beds of roses, And a thousand fragrant posies.

~Marie Antoinette

I am terrified of being bored.

~Marie Antoinette

Tribulation first makes one realize what one is.

~Marie Antoinette

Courage? The moment when my troubles are going to end is not the moment when my courage is going to fail me.

~Marie Antoinette

No one understands my ills, nor the terror that fills my breast, who does not know the heart of a mother.

~Marie Antoinette

No, do not love me, it is better to give me death!

~Marie Antoinette

one's enjoyment is doubled when one can share it with a friend - and where can one find a more affectionate, a more intimate friend than in one's own family?

~Marie Antoinette

Farewell, my children, forever. I go to your Father.

~Marie Antoinette

I trust we shall never be reduced to the painful extremity of seeking the aid of Mirabeau.

~Marie Antoinette

Let them eat cake.

~Marie Antoinette

I have come, Sire, to complain of one of your subjects who has been so audacious as to kick me in the belly.

~Marie Antoinette
