All of us change. Everyone in this world, from birth to death, becomes someone new. Again and again, we are remade.

~Marjorie M. Liu

Expect the unexpected, my mother once said. Because the unexpected most certainly will be expecting you.

~Marjorie M. Liu

I am vulnerable, starved for kindness. And when I receive it, I lose my mind.

~Marjorie M. Liu

Moscow was, as some said, the most beautiful mistress a man could ever want, but never cross her: like any good woman, she might just cut off your balls for the hell of it.

~Marjorie M. Liu

Miracles pass and I see. Great wonders speak and I listen.

~Marjorie M. Liu

I've got a black-belt in crazy, and I know where you live.

~Marjorie M. Liu

Being alone was easier. No risk, just loneliness. No one ever died from that.

~Marjorie M. Liu

He was a hot, hot former priest and she wanted to pull a Thorn Birds on his ass.

~Marjorie M. Liu

The one thing about being a creator, about being an artist, is that you get to explore your ideas. We're fortunate that we're in the position to do that, and I don't take it for granted.

~Marjorie M. Liu

Nice characters are boring! I like writing upbeat characters - that's my natural tendency.

~Marjorie M. Liu

Nice characters are boring!

~Marjorie M. Liu

Religion was no cure for dysfunction.
