Language is the picture and counterpart of thought.

~Mark Hopkins

Our prayer and God's mercy are like two buckets in a well; while the one ascends the other descends.

~Mark Hopkins

Certainly, no revolution that has ever taken place in society can be compared to that which has been produced by the words of Jesus Christ.

~Mark Hopkins

Religion without morality is a superstition and a curse, and morality without religion is impossible.

~Mark Hopkins

Man has wants deeper than can be supplied by wealth or nature or domestic affections. His great relations are to his God and to eternity.

~Mark Hopkins

Christianity is the greatest civilizing, moulding, uplifting power on this globe.

~Mark Hopkins

Who will reach heaven? I do not know, but I am certain that no one will be there who does not feel at home.

~Mark Hopkins

Christianity alone inspires and guides progress; for the progress of man is movement toward God. and movement toward God will ensure a gradual unfolding of all that exalts and adorns man.

~Mark Hopkins

All mental discipline and symmetrical growth are from activity of the mind under the yoke of the will or personal power.

~Mark Hopkins

Whatever capacities there may be for enjoyment or for suffering in this strange being of ours, and God only knows what they are, they will be drawn out wholly in accordance with character.

~Mark Hopkins

Faith then, in its relation to salvation, is that confidence by which we accept it as a free gift from the Saviour, and is the only possible way in which the gift of God could be appropriated.

~Mark Hopkins

The infidelity that springs from the heart is not to be reached by a course of lectures on the evidences of Christianity; argument did not cause, and argument will not remove it.

~Mark Hopkins

But for us there are moments, O, how solemn, when destiny trembles in the balance and the preponderance of either scale is by our own choice.
