The best entrepreneurs never confuse motion with results.

~Martin Zwilling

No matter how confident you are in your own abilities, you can't build and run a business alone. You need your army pulling you ahead, rather than holding you back.

~Martin Zwilling

The recipe for success . . . customers will get what they want, when they want it . . . you will see more revenue, greater brand loyalty, real relationships, and a competitive edge.

~Martin Zwilling

If you are 'too busy' most of the time, or locked behind closed doors, no mentoring relationship can work.

~Martin Zwilling

If you accept failure as learning, it's not discouraging to keep adapting until you find success.

~Martin Zwilling

You can't be an absentee entrepreneur and expect the team to stay motivated.
