I believe there is no philosophical high-road in science, with epistemological signposts. No, we are in a jungle and find our way by trial and error, building our road behind us as we proceed.

~Max Born

Those who say that the study of science makes a man an atheist, must be rather silly people.

~Max Born

The belief that there is only one truth and that oneself is in possession of it seems to me the deepest root of all evil that is in the world.

~Max Born

Intellect distinguishes between the possible and the impossible; reason distinguishes between the sensible and the senseless. Even the possible can be senseless.

~Max Born

We need to make a world in which fewer children are born, and in which we take better care of them.

~Max Born

The belief in a single truth is the root cause for all evil in the world.

~Max Born

Physics as we know it will be over in six months.

~Max Born

My advice to those who wish to learn the art of scientific prophesy is not to rely on abstract reason, but to decipher the secret language of Nature from Nature's documents: the facts of experience.

~Max Born

There are two objectionable types of believers: those who believe the incredible and those who believe that 'belief' must be discarded and replaced by 'the scientific method.

~Max Born

I am now convinced that theoretical physics is actually philosophy.

~Max Born

We have sought for firm ground and found none. The deeper we penetrate, the more restless becomes the universe; all is rushing about and vibrating in a wild dance.

~Max Born

It is true that many scientists are not philosophically minded and have hitherto shown much skill and ingenuity but little wisdom.

~Max Born

All attempts to adapt our ethical code to our situation in the technological age have failed.

~Max Born

No language which lends itself to visualizability can describe quantum jumps.

~Max Born

Science?is so greatly opposed to history and tradition that it cannot be absorbed by our civilization.

~Max Born

But in practical affairs, particularly in politics, men are needed who combine human experience and interest in human relations with a knowledge of science and technology.

~Max Born

To present a scientific subject in an attractive and stimulating manner is an artistic task, similar to that of a novelist or even a dramatic writer.

The same holds for writing textbooks.
