The banding together by the nations of the world against Israel is the guarantee that their time of destruction is near and the final redemption of the Jew at hand.

~Meir Kahane

Let us not suffer from a national amnesia that causes us to forget who and what we are.

~Meir Kahane

I prefer a powerful and proud Jewish State that is hated by the entire world than an Auschwitz that is loved by one and all

~Meir Kahane

No trait is more justified than revenge in the right time and place.

~Meir Kahane

Surely it is time for Jews, worried over the huge growth of Arabs in Israel, to consider finishing the exchange of populations that began 35 years ago.

~Meir Kahane

The Jew does not wish to be isolated. He fears being alone, without allies.

~Meir Kahane

If we ever hope to rid the world of the political AIDS of our time, terrorism, the rule must be clear: One does not deal with terrorists; one does not bargain with terrorists; one kills terrorists.

~Meir Kahane

One of the great problems with Americans is that - being a decent people - they assume that everyone else is equally decent.

~Meir Kahane

Love has its place, as does hate. Peace has its place, as does war. Mercy has its place, as do cruelty and revenge.

~Meir Kahane

There is no greater anti-Semite than the Jewish one, and none hates the Jewish people more than the Jewish traitor and apostate.

~Meir Kahane

The Jewish nation is indeed, the heart of the world and there is no reason for the existence of empires, kings, rulers, masses or systems aside from their reaction to the Jewish people.

~Meir Kahane

The observant Jew has his own sense of values. Torah Judaism is his blueprint for this life, his target for existence.

~Meir Kahane

There is the illusion of the world and the reality of the Torah.

~Meir Kahane

It is incumbent upon us to understand our greatness and believe in it so that we do not cheapen and profane ourselves.

~Meir Kahane

Life is essentially a question of values.

~Meir Kahane

Above all, it is not decency or goodness or gentleness that impresses the Middle East, but strength.

~Meir Kahane

Every man judges his own happiness and satisfaction with life in terms of his possession or lack of possession of those things that he considers worthwhile and valuable.

~Meir Kahane

The Jew is upset because the nations of the world - the United Nations - lash him, brand him as racist and evil, hate him and openly demonstrate their desire to destroy him.
