Sometimes the presence of a camera is like opening a door.

~Michael Glawogger

I think beauty is the splendor of truth, so if the people I portray think they're beautiful, they're beautiful. I don't make them that way.

~Michael Glawogger

If you connect with someone just once, that's something. But if you can connect twice, that's something else.

~Michael Glawogger

I've made many documentaries, but prostitution was the hardest in terms of gaining the trust of the people being filmed.

~Michael Glawogger

As a filmmaker I cannot make anything beautiful. I'm Platonic in that sense.

~Michael Glawogger

In the Bengali language, there's not a real word for blow job. They call it "doing the ice cream."

~Michael Glawogger

Mostly I take photographs in times of research. Whores' Glory was shot in 30 days, 10 days for each segment, but the research for each part lasted a couple of months.

The most important thing is to find people that you enjoy - friends that you enjoy playing music with.

~Michael Glawogger

Sometimes the presence of a camera is like opening a door, because many people want what Andy Warhol called "15 minutes of fame." But prostitutes don't want that.

~Michael Glawogger

On one hand, they [prostitutes] don't struggle because it's simply their life. In Mexico and elsewhere, once they get out of these places [brothels] they have a pretty square life.
