It's such a fine line between stupid and clever.

~Michael McKean

Some people stay in the academic world just to avoid becoming self-aware. You can quote me on that.

~Michael McKean

Sometimes we drop in and do an acoustic set somewhere, and that's really fun to take all these insanely loud songs, and to do them quiet. It's really a sight to see... or to hear!

~Michael McKean

I think you have everyone kind of pulling on the same end of the rope. It's not like you're Robin Williams and everyone else is a deaf mute. It's like - there's plenty of help.

~Michael McKean

Even when there are banalities, they're usually kind of benign banalities.

~Michael McKean

I'm kind of the town pump. I think I have a pretty good ear for what sounds good in this style.

~Michael McKean

I never regret anything and I don't believe in regret. I think it's just a big time-waster.

~Michael McKean

There are people in the world who won't watch a movie that's in black and white. There's got to be a special place in hell for them.

~Michael McKean

Jazz, isn't that just a series of mistakes diguised as musical composition?

~Michael McKean

Those people that you know for a long time and that you love, they're the easiest to talk to.

~Michael McKean

When we can figure out a way to really tour and make a profit, then we'll do it again.

~Michael McKean

I think a band that doesn't have a sense of humor can come up with their own take on whimsy. Kind of lead-footed and ham-handed, but I think just all the better for that.

~Michael McKean

I'm all over the place. As you may have seen from the credits, I write with everybody.

~Michael McKean

The process depends on the situation, and I don't think there are any two songs that have gone exactly the same way... well, actually, that's not true.

~Michael McKean

That's a job that it makes a few friendships, but it probably breaks more.
