When you step further into the story you came to live, not only does the mythic territory open, but the deep self moves and the world of imagination and meaning comes towards you.

~Michael Meade

Each person is a story that the Soul of the World wants to tell to itself.

~Michael Meade

Emotions are the natural substances of the soul ... and when we think we can't handle the emotions, we lose the natural substances of the soul and begin looking for substances to replace the flow.

~Michael Meade

Everyone gets wounded in this world and everyone has within them some golden qualities that can serve to heal the wounds of time and the traumatic effects of human tragedy.

~Michael Meade

As a culture, we turn away from people just when they are in times of change. That's when most communities used to embrace people, so the individual and the culture both benefited.

~Michael Meade

A false sense of security is the only kind there is.

~Michael Meade

When a culture simply shrugs about what happens to people in war, it breaks the fragile sequence, the bond between all people.

~Michael Meade

The desire to be part of something greater and to occupy life more fully, is also a desire to touch and be touched by the living imagination that sustains each soul and all of life.

~Michael Meade

While you had the chance to live, did you become your true self?

~Michael Meade

Genius is the basis for the deepest type of mentoring. When true learning occurs genius teaches genius and both the teacher and the student grow.

~Michael Meade

The gift within the gift involved the opening of an inner eye that changed how I looked at life.

~Michael Meade

During youth a blossoming and budding forth tries to happen from inside out as each young person encounters what is seeded in them and gifted in their soul.

~Michael Meade

A true calling is aimed at the genius qualities already set within each person.
