Seasons change. So do cities. People come into your life and people go, but it's comforting to know: the ones you love are always in your heart. And if you're very lucky, a plane ride away.

~Michael Patrick King

That's the thing about needs. Sometimes when you get them met, you don't need them anymore.

~Michael Patrick King

Maybe our mistakes are what make our fate. Without them, what would shape our lives? Perhaps, if we never veered off course, we wouldn't fall in love or have babies or be who we are.

~Michael Patrick King

Let there be no mistake. A gay man alone could never begin to replicate the inner workings of the female mind.

~Michael Patrick King

It seems a lot of straight men need a word coach or a lawyer when it comes to discussing 'Sex and the City.'

~Michael Patrick King

I really enjoy women and I totally understand and applaud the diversity that they have in terms of their emotions and intellects and vulnerability and strengths.

~Michael Patrick King

People pull away from something if it's not of good taste. People lean into something if it's okay.

~Michael Patrick King

'Sex and the City' is about outsiders. Single girls as lepers, should have been married by now. It's the reason the whole thing took off.

~Michael Patrick King

Here's what happens - you create something in the moment that you feel will be good, and then... people's reactions to it or people referencing it years later, it's a compliment.

~Michael Patrick King

Every character when born is a stereotype.

~Michael Patrick King

I don't wear a watch. How do I know my time? I find that someone will always tell me.

~Michael Patrick King

Nothing else exists when art does.

~Michael Patrick King

I always like a good math solution to any love problem.

~Michael Patrick King

The jokes I used to do on 'Sex and the City' were always comic character things, and they were rarely hard jokes. As soon as you go up in front of people, it demands laughter.

~Michael Patrick King

Who's to say where funny stops and 'too far' starts?

~Michael Patrick King

The first-time director thing is just another label somebody puts on you.

~Michael Patrick King

The second episode of any new show can be tough. You have about a week to top the well-crafted and polished pilot episode that was written over six months.

~Michael Patrick King

I'm happiest in an empty church. I love the smell of a church.

~Michael Patrick King

People wince when something is in bad taste. They laugh when it's funny. If it's too dirty or wrong, they won't laugh. But if it's a big, dirty, smart, funny laugh, they love it.

~Michael Patrick King

My female writers have always been my backbone. I had a writing room of six women for five years so I know what women do. Cultivated by me, by the way!
