Baseball should adopt replay, plain and simple. If we can see it at home or on hand-held PDAs, the technology should be used in games.

~Michael Wilbon

Players suffer coaching changes all the time; it's life in the NFL.

~Michael Wilbon

God, I'm glad I grew up in a time when kids followed sports in the newspaper and on TV and knew every sport.

~Michael Wilbon

Football can stand parity better than any of the other sports, I think. Baseball, basketball and hockey need a defining team, in essence to frame the season. Football? Not so much.

~Michael Wilbon

Lombardi, Shula, Landry and Gibbs were innovators. Bill Walsh was a visionary . . . .

~Michael Wilbon

The thing about great athletes is that they all believe they can win the very next time.

~Michael Wilbon

I don't want to sound like some grumpy old man telling you to get off my lawn.

~Michael Wilbon

Italy doesn't need American football. For what? I've been. Wine, women, song, shopping, unbelievable vistas and landscapes... You need Titans vs. Panthers? Uh, no.

~Michael Wilbon

Sports don't define us; it is not what we live for.

~Michael Wilbon

Professional football is the most violent thing your eyes have ever seen.

~Michael Wilbon

There's no greater city between Memorial Day and Labor Day than Chicago. It's the single best summer city in America.

~Michael Wilbon

Nothing is as violent as football and I bet you like. Just say you don't like it, or can't identify, don't come up with excuses like "It's too violent" while you wear some team's NFL jersey.

~Michael Wilbon

Sports executives are great at convincing themselves whatever they believe is right and simply has to be.

~Michael Wilbon

We [Americans] are a football-baseball-basketball-golf culture with some occasional forays into tennis and less often the winter sports.

~Michael Wilbon

Whatever you paid to see Michael Jordan it wasn't enough. You knew that every night out there you were gonna get the greatest concert of your life.

~Michael Wilbon

There are always late bloomers [in sport], no matter size, although big men are more often late bloomers.

~Michael Wilbon

People here don't identify themselves by their sports team.

~Michael Wilbon

Somebody once told me that whatever you're listening to at 30 years old is going to be what you listen to for life and that's largely true.

~Michael Wilbon

The great thing about media now is that you have 360 degrees worth of opinions and can find whatever you want and tune out whatever you want.
