I don't want to force the peacekeeping nations to feel like I'm pushing them out.

~Michel Martelly

Donors need to know what their money is being used for.

~Michel Martelly

The people behind me are the people behind Aristide. They are just looking for better days.

~Michel Martelly

The last five-six presidents of Haiti have failed miserably. And I don't think it would be an honor for me to say I want to be the next 'president.' I want to be the man by with whom change arrives.

~Michel Martelly

It's time for Haitians to have access to health care. It's time to open our borders to the Haitian diaspora, open our markets to the world. It's time to open our country to potential investors.

~Michel Martelly

I came into the music world in 1988 with a song called Ooh La La, that was like a breath of fresh air in Haitian music.

~Michel Martelly

The Haiti that has been waiting for help and not moving no longer exists. Enough handouts; we need hands up. Enough aid; we need trade.

~Michel Martelly

I believe my past is my strength.

~Michel Martelly

I want to continue to do a good job for my constituents, my party doesn't want me to resign.

~Michel Martelly

When you put more than a million kids in school, you take a plane today and go to Haiti, you cannot see the results. You will see the results in 30 years when you see a different type of Haitian.

~Michel Martelly

Any MP has to have a proper family life, they have to have support of their partner.

~Michel Martelly

When I came in, Haiti was not governed by Haitians anymore. Probably mostly by NGOs. And that has done what to Haiti? It has weakened our institution.

~Michel Martelly

I remain close to my people. I keep singing with them.

~Michel Martelly

I don't even want to be president!

~Michel Martelly

Everything in Haiti right now is a priority.

~Michel Martelly

When I was campaigning, I told the people if nothing happens under my mandate it will still be a positive thing because my mandate will be used as a rupture between the past and the future.
