Pissed Off, Being Stupid, Lying*

Not all of our heartless plans work as we intend; nor do all of our good intentions. We are where we are, and we can rarely predict where we will go, no matter how firm our beliefs.

~Michelle Sagara

I'm missing something, aren't I?" "Brains", he snapped. "And survival instinct. The Hawklord's been waiting for you for three hours." "Tell him I'm dead.

~Michelle Sagara

Maybe home is something we have to make, and remake, over and over.

~Michelle Sagara

What humans do when they're desperate is just an expression of fear. What they do when they feel safe is a better indication of whether or not you can trust them.

~Michelle Sagara

Truth, like beauty, is in the eyes of the beholder.

~Michelle Sagara

We all fail. But none of us fail all the time.

~Michelle Sagara

Kaylin is not known for her punctuality. She is known, in fact, for her lack--even by those outside of the Hawklord's command.

~Michelle Sagara

Success and failure are two edges of the same blade, two sides of the same coin. To fear one is to forever deny the possibility of the other.

~Michelle Sagara

I don't make the laws, I just enforce them." "Then remind me to introduce a new set of laws, since the ones we have clearly assume a level of common sense that's lacking.

~Michelle Sagara

You are an... animal? A talking animal?" Without missing a beat, Teela said, "Of course not. She's much, much harder to train.

~Michelle Sagara

If hearts really could sink, Kaylin's was busily rearranging her internal organs.

~Michelle Sagara

Trying is fine. Failing is inevitable. Don't let it devour you.

~Michelle Sagara

The truth was only another mask, even if it was the best fit, the closest to skin and all that lay beneath

~Michelle Sagara

There wasn't a colloquial phrase, or curse, that went something like, "May your day be full of angry dragons" or, "May every dragon you meet today be pissed off." But, there should have been.

~Michelle Sagara

Stop judging your life only by the failures.

~Michelle Sagara

Hope is often bitter, but it drives us, and we cling.

~Michelle Sagara

If life were fair, we would never have suffered what we suffered at all; having suffered it and survived, we're still reacting to things that don't exist anymore.

~Michelle Sagara

Lies were something you told other people to make things easier, somehow - hopefully, for them, but often more selfishly for yourself.

~Michelle Sagara

The look he gave her made her turn away for a moment. Sometimes you couldn't look too closely at another person's pain.

~Michelle Sagara

i'm never going to understand the Barrani." "You needn't sound so morose, Lord Kaylin. They are unlikely to understand you either." "Yes, but I'm unlikely to try to kill them for fun.

~Michelle Sagara

I hate being the only mortal in a gathering full of Immortals who think killing each other cleverly is the height of good manners.

~Michelle Sagara

There is not a man born among us who dreamsâ€”at firstâ€”of service, although in the end, many are bent that way.

~Michelle Sagara

History is not our guide, it is not our friend. It is a passing stranger, one which shadows legend, sprinkling it with the seeds of truth.

~Michelle Sagara

The gods where like the weather; sometimes good, sometimes bad, and either way, always beyond her.

~Michelle Sagara

Generally, I like to appear smart. I don't admit being stupid when there's any hope I'm not.

~Michelle Sagara

You'll be with me, won't you?" "indeed." "Then what could go wrong?"

Lord Sanabalis visibly grimaced. "You clearly do not believe in angry gods.

~Michelle Sagara

Is this some sort of test?" "Everything that doesn't kill you is." "Mind you," he added, "surviving doesn't always mean you passed.
