I realize that of all people, I am no expert on parenting or marriage.

~Mika Brzezinski

My parents found me very difficult to educate.

~Mika Brzezinski

A fundamental lesson on being fired: Never lie about it. People will know what you're saying is a cover-up for how you really feel - embarrassed, discouraged, and afraid.

~Mika Brzezinski

Don't apologize for asking for what you deserve.

~Mika Brzezinski

My salary situation at 'Morning Joe' wasn't right. I made five attempts to fix it, then realized I'd made the same mistake every time: I apologised for asking.

~Mika Brzezinski

Everyday I find myself reminding women around me to know their value. I also have to remind myself.

~Mika Brzezinski

I have mugs of hot water every morning because the studio is cold, and also because it makes my throat sound clearer.

~Mika Brzezinski

I personally know Donald Trump, and I know a lot of amazing really kind acts that he's done one-on-one with people. And the candidate that I see is not the person I know.

~Mika Brzezinski

Donald Trump needs mental-health help.

~Mika Brzezinski

I was fired at the pinnacle of my career, on my 39th birthday. And in the year that followed, I learned that there are many psychological phases of being 'let go.'

~Mika Brzezinski

I think women have a hard time not apologizing their way into negotiations. We tend to back in to these conversations in a self-deprecating and ultimately self-defeating way.

~Mika Brzezinski

The needs of babies and toddlers were constant and drained the life out my sense of self and my familys relationship with each other.

~Mika Brzezinski

Finding a job is hard enough, but have you ever considered the odds and the challenges of finding a good man?

~Mika Brzezinski

If we can't quantify and communicate our value with confidence, the achievements of the tremendous women before us will have all been for nothing.

~Mika Brzezinski

Women play into each other's weaknesses.

~Mika Brzezinski

Being unemployed has so many real and palpable ramifications but there are also psychological side effects which you can only understand if youve truly lived through it.

~Mika Brzezinski

Why don't these companies making big profits just pay people better than $14 an hour? It's kind of simple. When you're making record profits, why not? I don't get it.

~Mika Brzezinski

I am not afraid to say my relationship with my man is important, even vital, to who I am as a person.

~Mika Brzezinski

On 'Morning Joe' I can say what I think, be my sometimes unorthodox self, have fun, yet be serious as well.

~Mika Brzezinski

Often I feel like I can run forever. If someone told me I had to run for 10 hours, I probably could.

~Mika Brzezinski

After being let go from CBS and looking for a year for work, I will never catch myself complaining about being too busy.

~Mika Brzezinski

My family was always active, and our thing was family walks. Not walks around the block, but more like eight-mile hikes up mountains.

~Mika Brzezinski

There's always more money to be made.

~Mika Brzezinski

I try my best to be extremely disciplined about my diet.

~Mika Brzezinski

I'd been fired by CBS News in a semipublic way, and as the months went by, there was a perception that I was damaged goods.

~Mika Brzezinski

I've worked with Ed Bradley, Dan Rather and lots of different local news anchors.

~Mika Brzezinski

We have to stop judging people who are struggling with their weight.

~Mika Brzezinski

Despite my professional experience, the fifteen-hour workdays, and a successful new show that I had helped build, MSNBC was still refusing to pay me what I was worth.

~Mika Brzezinski

Don't make your journey through life harder by placing rules on yourself like, 'I can't get married till I get promoted to your dream job.'

~Mika Brzezinski

If we've seen one thing from Donald Trump, it's that he says one thing one day, and another thing another.
