I wish I had played team sports. I think every kid should. Teamwork builds character - teaches people about leadership and cooperation.

~Mo Rocca

One Christmas my father kept our tree up till March. He hated to see it go. I loved that.

~Mo Rocca

I love Christmas. Frosty the Snowman, peace on Earth and mangers, Salvation Army bell ringers and reindeer, the movie 'Meet Me in St. Louis,' office parties and cookies.

~Mo Rocca

Politicians who wear little tennis socks with the balls at the back should not be taken seriously.

~Mo Rocca

Homemade sweaters are always itchy.

~Mo Rocca

Hypocrisy is great fodder for comedy.

~Mo Rocca

I know a lot about a few things - mostly useless things.

~Mo Rocca

It's much easier to make jokes about sensitive issues if there is some dissent, some conflict.

~Mo Rocca

Christmas is a stocking stuffed with sugary goodness.

~Mo Rocca

One could say, that #â€Ž Masons were raised right.

~Mo Rocca

I'm in fact a hair under six feet, but I'm very svelte. People would never see me if I turned sideways.

~Mo Rocca

If there's one thing that everyone can agree on, it's that, right or wrong, they hate the press.

~Mo Rocca

It's interesting, because I tend to trust a man with big ears.

~Mo Rocca

Digital television, satellite radio, videogames, iPods - so much media. Do books even matter anymore?

~Mo Rocca

I have a dream, and a plan, to combine the commercial possibilities of Valentine's Day with the substance and meaning of black history month. I call it: Blackentine's Day.

~Mo Rocca

Wheel of Fortune was an important SAT prep for me.

~Mo Rocca

The most important thing is to write material that YOU think is funny. If you don't think it's funny, but you're convinced that other people will think it is, well they won't.

~Mo Rocca

I love the excess of Christmas. The shopping season that begins in September, the bad pop star recordings of Christmas carols, the decorations that don't know when to come down.

~Mo Rocca

If I had a time machine I would go back 30 years and show up at my grandmother's apartment before the gargantuan meals she would serve and I would help her.

~Mo Rocca

My sophomore year I spent exactly one day on the JV football team. It was the tryout day.

~Mo Rocca

Yes, I still love 'South Park,' but I also love morning TV now.

~Mo Rocca

I still don't know how to cook and that's just unacceptable.

~Mo Rocca

I was not a jock in high school. I know, you're shocked.

~Mo Rocca

I'm always working on a few different stories at once, so there's always some really big coffee table book I'm carrying around.

~Mo Rocca

I mean, you're gonna be left behind if you don't appreciate the genius that is Meredith Vieira.

~Mo Rocca

When it comes to war, we focus more on the mainstream coverage of the event, rather than the event itself. People dying is never funny. Protest puppets are always funny.

~Mo Rocca

Did I end up finding a little blue pill to cure America's electoral dysfunction? Unfortunately, it's not that simple.

~Mo Rocca

I'd rather call myself a mischief-maker, an imp, rather than a satirist. Satirist sounds so self important. Plus no one is calling himself an imp right now. It makes me feel special.

~Mo Rocca

I was way too hyperactive to study for long. I would freak out, then crash, then be too tired to read or write. I really should have had less sugar.

~Mo Rocca

While some of my closest friends were jocks, it seemed that they spoke a different language with each other. Joining in their conversation was fraught with risk.

~Mo Rocca

Look, not embracing the 'Today' show is soooo yesterday.
