The facts of life are conservative.

~Mona Charen

Liberal dominance of important areas of America's social and political life has undermined many of the virtues that have sustained this country.

~Mona Charen

The entitlement mentality so carefully cultivated by liberal academics, politicians, clergymen, and journalists continues to corrode the self-sufficiency that once defined the American character.

~Mona Charen

Homelessness came into being because liberal policy makers embraced a series of foolish ideas.

~Mona Charen

Just as the baby boom generation seemed to believe it was the first to discover sex, many of its members also seemed to think they were the first to discover the horrors of war.

~Mona Charen

Truth telling is the first building block of character -- a quality that seems to be getting rarer and rarer in all-forgiving America.

~Mona Charen

Every liberal initiative, from welfare to antismoking measures, is justified by reference to 'the children.' Yet the clear result of liberal policies is to harm children even more than adults.

~Mona Charen

One might have thought that the Cold War's conclusion would have convinced the Left that appeasement of dictators is not profitable.

~Mona Charen

Any stimulus package amounts to taking money from the pockets of some Americans and placing it in the pockets of others who have better political connections.

~Mona Charen

Liberals and international diplomats (a distinction without a difference) have notorious difficulty understanding how to deal with totalitarian regimes.

~Mona Charen

Abused And neglected children have paid the price for liberalism's tendency to sentimentalize the poor.

~Mona Charen

Popular culture, in all its crudeness, is the output of liberals. It is liberalism that for decades has rejected any protest as 'censorship' or 'McCarthyism.'

~Mona Charen

If the party of gloom is ever to regain its footing, it will have to start by understanding that those who defeated them are not a bunch of ignorant yahoos looking forward to Armageddon.

~Mona Charen

Though liberals have portrayed themselves throughout the past several decades as champions of the homeless, they are actually guilty of having created and perpetuated their condition.

~Mona Charen

Quantum Mechanics: The dreams stuff is made of. Quick: try to think of a single movie about the horrors of Stalinism. This is not a failure of imagination. This is moral meltdown.
