My Dad was so open creatively that I was off in search of black turtleneck bathing suits with long sleeves.

~Moon Unit Zappa

I spent most of my life locked in my bedroom, miserable about my raging acne.

~Moon Unit Zappa

It occurred to me, when I was old enough to make rules of my own, that they should be fair and simple.

~Moon Unit Zappa

How strange, when your father's wearing women's clothes and platform shoes, that a pair of loafers looks incredible.

~Moon Unit Zappa

I made enough money to buy a house. That's crazy, but fame proved ephemeral.

~Moon Unit Zappa

Everyone has flaws. It's a matter of finding the ones you can live with.

~Moon Unit Zappa

I had a friend whose family had dinner together. The mother would tuck you in at night and make breakfast in the morning. They even had a spare bike for a friend. It just seemed so amazing to me.

~Moon Unit Zappa

The idea of licking stamps seemed great fun for me.

~Moon Unit Zappa

I think I have a dark view of the world. I have to make everything funny, otherwise it all seems so sad.

~Moon Unit Zappa

I didn't have any concept of age or authority. I remember realising, Oh, the world has rules and we don't.

~Moon Unit Zappa

I have a tree man coming to trim the jacaranda in my front garden.

~Moon Unit Zappa

I would think: Stay close to the implants! They must know something because they keep getting asked backstage!

~Moon Unit Zappa

I grew up with too much freedom. You can't define yourself.

~Moon Unit Zappa

If there's anything more mortifying than being famous at 14, it's being washed up right after.

~Moon Unit Zappa

Every job I've ever gotten has been an accident. All the jobs I actually go after, I don't get.

~Moon Unit Zappa

My mother tells this story that when I first went to school, I thought I was going to help the teachers. I didn't realize I was going to get educated.

~Moon Unit Zappa

I'm totally convinced I can write the perfect pop song.

~Moon Unit Zappa

Your own experience keeps taking you towards something. My book adds the hope that it's a better something.

~Moon Unit Zappa

I like to think of myself as a New Yorker, which is pathetic.

~Moon Unit Zappa

I've got a new relationship and I'm trapped in this old life.

~Moon Unit Zappa

I don't want to lose my name because that's how I know myself. There is a legacy here.
