Life at any time can become difficult: life at any time can become easy. It all depends upon how one adjusts oneself to life.

~Morarji Desai

All good things are difficult to achieve; and bad things are very easy to get.

~Morarji Desai

If we do not want to be pained by anybody we must not pain anybody; and how can man consider himself humane if he wants to live at the cost of others.

~Morarji Desai

As long as man eats animals how can cruelty to animals be removed.

~Morarji Desai

One can't be kind to one person and cruel to another.

~Morarji Desai

The vegetarian movement is an ancient movement and is not quite a modern one.

~Morarji Desai

One has got to choose between the two evils, also between the lesser of the two evils in the matter of food, and therefore vegetarian food has got to be taken by man in order to sustain human life.

~Morarji Desai

I believe in preventing cruelty to all living beings in any form.

~Morarji Desai

An expert gives an objective view. He gives his own view.

~Morarji Desai

Self-help must precede help from others. Even for making certain of help from heaven, one has to help oneself.

~Morarji Desai

I do not say that one who is vegetarian is full of compassion and one who is not, is otherwise. We sometimes find people, who are vegetarians, are very bad people.

~Morarji Desai

Therefore, vegetarianism alone can give us the quality of compassion, which distinguishes man from the rest of the animal world.

~Morarji Desai

I would, therefore, say that for no reason whatsoever, except in self-defense, should one think of killing any animal.
