People's souls are like gardens. You can't turn your back on someone because his garden's full of weeds. You have to give him water and lots of sunshine.

~Nancy Farmer

Patience and love can do anything.

~Nancy Farmer

No one can tell the difference between a clone and a human. That's because there isn't any difference. The idea of clones being inferior is a filthy lie.

~Nancy Farmer

Slow people are just paying close attention.

~Nancy Farmer

After all, what is suffering but an awareness of suffering?

~Nancy Farmer

But I also know that to ignore joy while it lasts, in favor of lamenting one's fate, is a great crime.

~Nancy Farmer

Look around you...Feel the wind, smell the air. Listen to the birds and watch the sky. Tell me what's happening in the wide world.

~Nancy Farmer

Guardian angels guide the steps of idiots.

~Nancy Farmer

If I had a soul, I'd probably wind up in hell anyway.

~Nancy Farmer

Heroes, well, they don't live so long. But they're muy suave, and we all admire them.

~Nancy Farmer

Power's a strange thing, lad. It's a drug people like me crave it.

~Nancy Farmer

A little extra forgiveness never hurts," said Matt, quoting one of Celia's favorite sayings.

~Nancy Farmer

Always choose your bodyguard from another country, they find it harder to make alliance and betray you.

~Nancy Farmer

The high point of your life was when you knocked me down

~Nancy Farmer

That was the best kind of story: when the teller was as much under its spell as the listener.

~Nancy Farmer

Quests always have their ups and downs,' rumbled the giant. 'The point is never to give up, even if you're falling off a cliff. You never know what might happen on the way to the bottom.
