If you're into social justice it's hard not to be on black people's side.

~Neal Brennan

Whoever has the most at stake should have the most power.

~Neal Brennan

The rules may seem obvious but when you think about them they're not. For somebody who has my job they're not as obvious as one would think.

~Neal Brennan

The victory of the show is in the writing. Coming up with sketches and stand-up bits. The rest is just hitting buttons on a machine more or less.

~Neal Brennan

When I say the n-word, black people are clear that I'm on their side. And it's not disingenuous - I am on black people's side, clearly.

~Neal Brennan

People get way too much credit at funerals.

~Neal Brennan

[Robert Smigel] is one of the greatest comedy writers in the last 50 years. "TV Funhouse" and Triumph and all those sketches. He's really unique, and he has an amazing comedy mind.

~Neal Brennan

I think it's naïve to think white people aren't singing along directly!

~Neal Brennan

Models never say, "I'm hot." They say, "Look at these clothes." Whereas, with comedy, you have to say, "I'm hot."

~Neal Brennan

I guess I like people doing roasts in public. That's my thing.

~Neal Brennan

I'm making fun of midwestern homophobia [in the joke], but I'm still saying faggot. And almost every month as I'm doing that joke it gets five percent less of a laugh.

~Neal Brennan

I just think [Gangster Party Line] is funny and stupid and all the dudes in it are real dudes. It's just a funny construction.

~Neal Brennan

Brent Weinbach made [Gangster Party Line]. I guess I saw it when it first came out. And that is so goddamn funny to me. The guys are real dudes and they're not good, but they're also good enough.

~Neal Brennan

I think that [Eddie Murphy's famous "White Like Me"] is probably the first time I thought, "Oh. Being black is different. That is a totally different experience."

~Neal Brennan

If there are older black people in the audience that I can see I will not say the n-word. I know they grew up with a different meaning.
