Writing is not a profession, it's an addiction.

~Neal Gabler

More often than not "fair" and "balanced" may be mutually exclusive

~Neal Gabler

We prefer knowing to thinking, because knowing has more immediate value.

~Neal Gabler

I was taught to believe, "If you work hard, you will be successful. If you are not successful, it is because you didn't work hard enough."

~Neal Gabler

Today, the average family has enough financial reserves to keep going for about three weeks. That's it.

~Neal Gabler

And financial problems are exactly the same thing. You're humiliated. You're ashamed. You're embarrassed about telling anyone that you are suffering financial difficulties.
