Joy requires one to be awake, Adjusting the heart's ambience to bright.
Some prefer the dark, as is their right, On grounds of agony, and to forsake Not only bliss, but all that's blessed by light.

~Nick Gordon

Eight days the light continued on its own: A miracle, they say, but not more so Than ordinary lives of flesh and bone, Consuming wicks burned ashen long ago.

~Nick Gordon

On Hanukkah, the first dark night, Light yourself a candle bright. I'll you, if you will me invite To dance within that gentle light.

~Nick Gordon

As spirits roam the neighborhoods at night, Let loose upon the Earth till it be light.

~Nick Gordon

...A fuel-less flame is nothing but a wraith, However wrought, if unsustained by passion.

~Nick Gordon

Halloween wraps fear in innocence, as though it were a lightly sour sweet. Let terror, then, be turned into a treat.

~Nick Gordon

On Halloween, witches come true; Wild ghosts escape from dreams.
Each monster dances in the park.

~Nick Gordon

Hobgoblins know the proper way to dance: Arms akimbo, loopy legs askew, Leaping into darkness with delight, Lusting for the ecstasy of fright, Open to the charm of horrors new.

~Nick Gordon

Only night can make us whole again.

~Nick Gordon

Angels are quite ample cause to cry.

~Nick Gordon

By day each soul must walk within its shadow. Only night can make us whole again.

~Nick Gordon

Love of life at times requires death

~Nick Gordon

Given angel's wings, where might you fly? In what sweet heaven might you find your love? Unwilling to be bound, where might you move, Lost between the wonder and the why?

~Nick Gordon

Sixty years is cause enough to sing In celebration of a gentle life! To the mother and the wife, Taking pleasure in what love might bring, Yearning for what's worth the treasuring.
