We need to continue to decrease the growth rate of the global population; the planet can't support many more people.

~Nina Fedoroff

We wouldn't think of going to our doctor and saying 'Treat me the way doctors treated people in the 19th Century', and yet that's what we're demanding in food production.

~Nina Fedoroff

We have six-and-a-half-billion people on the planet, going rapidly towards seven. We're going to need a lot of inventiveness about how we use water and grow crops.

~Nina Fedoroff

There are probably already too many people on the planet.

~Nina Fedoroff

If everybody switched to organic farming, we couldn't support the earth's current population - maybe half.

~Nina Fedoroff

Weeds do become resistant to herbicides, and it needs to be managed with multiple herbicides.

~Nina Fedoroff

The influence of a science adviser is only as good as ears open to that science advice.

~Nina Fedoroff

If there are more and more environmental refugees, they are going to end up on your doorstep too.

~Nina Fedoroff

For me science is not different from art, except in the one small, crucial detail that experiments speak their own truths, not ours.

~Nina Fedoroff

Civilization depends on our expanding ability to produce food efficiently, which has markedly accelerated thanks to science and technology.

~Nina Fedoroff

As people around the world become more affluent, they are demanding diets richer in animal protein, which will require ever more robust feed crop yields to sustain.

~Nina Fedoroff

The more we can grow on already cultivated land, the better.

~Nina Fedoroff

In the last century, as we learned more about genes, we were able to devise ways of accelerating evolution.

~Nina Fedoroff

I don't know how you overcome the dearth of scientists in the government positions.
