The gains from technology must be channeled to a broader base of the population than has benefited so far.

~Nouriel Roubini

In the history of modern capitalism, crises are the norm, not the exception.

~Nouriel Roubini

I am not going to say I told you so, but I did.

~Nouriel Roubini

I think investing in a good education has been key for me, although the investment was more in time than money.

~Nouriel Roubini

The global financial crisis - missed by most analysts - shows that most forecasters are poor at pricing in economic/financial risks, let alone geopolitical ones.

~Nouriel Roubini

You have to eventually nationalize US banks, you have to take the problem by the horns. In my view actually most of the US banking system is insolvent.

~Nouriel Roubini

I think it's true that the 1 Percent or the elite are living in a world of, maybe, excessive privilege, and they don't fully realize how much pain and suffering, how much anxiety exists out there.

~Nouriel Roubini

We're essentially continuing a system where profits are privatized and...losses socialized.

~Nouriel Roubini

Once you run current-account deficits, you depend on the kindness of strangers. This might be the beginning of the end of the American empire.

~Nouriel Roubini

Technology is spurring innovation, and the so-called "demographic dividend" has brought change.

~Nouriel Roubini

Gold has no increasing value. And if you're really worried about, say, inflation rising, I would buy Spam. You know, you can eat Spam. You cannot eat gold.

~Nouriel Roubini

All the risky things that were happening back in '06 and 2007 are back again to the same level, if not more. So we are in the beginning of a credit bubble, but just the beginning.

~Nouriel Roubini

I am just a normal human being - I am alive! Why is anyone surprised that I am human? Like many New Yorkers, I have a multifaceted life.

~Nouriel Roubini

I'm not a pessimist by nature. I'm not someone who sees things in a bleak way.

~Nouriel Roubini

If you worry about financial Armageddon, it is indeed metaphorically the time to stock your bunker with guns, ammunition, canned food and gold bars.

~Nouriel Roubini

I'm a rock star among geeks, wonks, and nerds.
