Everyone wants to see someone shoot someone in the head.

~Oliver Jackson-Cohen

It was just hilarious how my first reaction was, "Oh, no, it's another vampire show. I'm not interested." And then, I read the script and thought it was brilliant.

~Oliver Jackson-Cohen

There are so many sitcoms. So, when you get to be a part of something that feels exciting to you, you just want to be a part of it.

~Oliver Jackson-Cohen

I haven't ever seen a period drama that has a fantasy element to it, that's set in London, that's as lavish as it is, and that's made for American TV.

~Oliver Jackson-Cohen

I rarely watch TV, and in the past two years, I've done three TV shows. It's quite interesting.

~Oliver Jackson-Cohen

You work with seasoned actors, and sometimes you realize that they phone it in.

~Oliver Jackson-Cohen

As the show [Dracula] goes on, Jonathan Harker gets darker and darker, and further into that side of it all. All of the worlds end up colliding and meshing together.

~Oliver Jackson-Cohen

I think it's very rare, as an actor, that you get to a script, or an idea of a script, and you go, "Oh, I just have to do that!" It fell into place very quickly.

~Oliver Jackson-Cohen

I'm perfectly honest, I've never seen Twilight, I've never seen The Vampire Diaries, and I've never seen True Blood, or anything like that.

~Oliver Jackson-Cohen

We read the [Dracula] scripts, but Jess [De Gouw] and I are completely taken out of the hunts and anything with Van Helsing. We're just living our lives, as our characters.

~Oliver Jackson-Cohen

On network, you have limitations for how raunchy it can get and how violent it can get.

~Oliver Jackson-Cohen

Vampires have been romanticized, and this is bringing it right back to being vampiric. I think there's something sexy and raw about that.

~Oliver Jackson-Cohen

Dracula isn't just another vampire show. It's something entirely different that I personally feel I've never seen on American TV before.

~Oliver Jackson-Cohen

I went to a French school, so we didn't study Bram Stoker there. I just thought it was a genius thing.

~Oliver Jackson-Cohen

Nowadays, everything is so gratuitous. The violence is suggested, and it's much more impactful than showing everything.
