As long as a certain problem primarily affects a different country, in this case Italy, one might not put it at the very top of one's list of priorities.

~Paolo Gentiloni

The message that "we can't take in everybody" is imperative. At the same time, the decision as to who has a right to asylum needs to be made in Brussels.

~Paolo Gentiloni

But it could be that we, as early as spring, will need to embark on a new policy in order to save one of the cornerstones of European politics: personal freedom of movement.

~Paolo Gentiloni

Let's put it this way: I am confident that Schengen will continue to be defended. And when it comes to repatriations, we have the same opinion.
