In a garden you can find, quiet thoughts that calm the mind.

~Patience Strong

While it is February one can taste the full joys of anticipation. Spring stands at the gate with her finger on the latch.

~Patience Strong

Life is like a field, where we must gather what we grow, weed or wheat... this is the law, we reap the crop we sow.

~Patience Strong

Every noble achievement is a dream before it is a reality just as the oak is an acorn before it is a tree.

~Patience Strong

It has been said that the only reason for leaving England is to give yourself the pleasure of coming back to it.

~Patience Strong

In looking back we remember only the triumphant consummations of each season. Failures and frustrations are forgotten; garden-memories are as perfect as garden-hopes.

~Patience Strong

Happy is the person who can keep a quiet heart, in the chaos and tumult of this modern world.

~Patience Strong

...the ancient ritual of the earth; ploughing and planting, reaping and threshing. The fundamental business remains unaltered; it is only the methods and tools that science is changing.

~Patience Strong

Few would dispute with the rose her claim to be the queen of flowers, for where is her equal to be found? Is she not God's masterpiece?

~Patience Strong

Success and failure, triumph and disaster. That is the rhythm of life in the garden.

~Patience Strong

in February there is everything to hope for and nothing to regret.

~Patience Strong

This is the divine moment when we can hold the fairest blossom of spring in one hand and the sweetest flowers of early summer in the other.

~Patience Strong

If you want good roses, sharpen your knife and harden your heart.

~Patience Strong

much of gardening is a struggle against the fecundity of Nature.

~Patience Strong

Winter sunshine is a fairy wand touching everything with a strange magic. It is like the smile of a friend in time of sorrow.

~Patience Strong

gardening is something more than a pastime; it is a religion.

~Patience Strong

New words are always being born and old ones fading away.
