If society has a technical need, that helps science forward more than ten universities.

~Paul A. Baran

As Hegel well knew, the ascent of reason has never followed a straight line.

~Paul A. Baran

In fact, all the additional knowledge gained by an irrationally constituted society may but enlarge and enhance the powers of death and destruction.

~Paul A. Baran

The process of writing is a process of learning; and much has become clearer to me in the attempt to transform my original rough notes into what I hope is an intelligible presentation.

~Paul A. Baran

The present Indian government, however, is neither able or willing to accept the challenge and to provide the leadership in breaking the resistance of urban and rural interests.

~Paul A. Baran

That the means of imperialist policy overshadow almost entirely its original ends has tremendous implications.

~Paul A. Baran

Indeed, I find it illuminating to consider to what extent our "classical conditions" for economic growth are satisfied in the current, monopolistic phase of capitalism.

~Paul A. Baran

One would think that the record of already existing regulatory agencies is sufficiently eloquent in showing that it is Big Business that does the regulating rather than vice versa .
