What if the church should be less concerned with creating saints than creating a world where we do not need saints? A world where people like Mother Teresa and MLK would have nothing to do.

~Peter Rollins

The church is a place where we make our prejudice sacred.

~Peter Rollins

Whatever you believe, be open to being wrong

~Peter Rollins

If you cannot speak your brokenness, your brokenness will speak for you.

~Peter Rollins

Here God is not approached as an object that we must love, but as a mystery present in the very act of love itself.

~Peter Rollins

I deny the resurrection every time I turn my back on the poor or become a cog in a system of injustice

~Peter Rollins

That which we cannot speak of is the one thing about whom and to whom we must never stop speaking.

~Peter Rollins

Truly embracing the fragility and tensions of life...brings with it the possibility of true joy.

~Peter Rollins

To believe is human to doubt is divine.

~Peter Rollins

Your job is to take notes, my job is to make that impossible.

~Peter Rollins
