The one thing worse than an enemy is a friend turned false.

~Philip Reeve

Sometimes, on our way through the world, we meet someone who touches our heart in a way others don't.

~Philip Reeve

You aren't a hero and I'm not beautiful and we probably won't live happily ever after " she said. "But we're alive and together and we're going to be all right.

~Philip Reeve

he cut through the 21st Century Gallery, past the big plastic statues of Pluto and Mickey, animal headed gods of lost America

~Philip Reeve

I used to be very fascinated by Victorian stuff, and my best known books, the Mortal Engines series, have a sort of retro, Victorian vibe, despite being set in the far future.

~Philip Reeve

I still feel, as I did when I was six or seven, that books are simply the best way to experience a story.

~Philip Reeve

Moving cities are a fairly hoary old sci-fi trope - I seem to recall they were always cropping up on Doctor Who when I was young, though I may be misremembering.

~Philip Reeve

But boys will be boys, even the ones who are only girls dressed up: That's one of the rules of the world.

~Philip Reeve

Godshawk looked surprised, the way that people generally do when you ask them philosophical questions in shrubberies in the middle of the night.

~Philip Reeve

Is it...dead?" asked Tom, his voice all quivery with fright. "A town just ran over him," said Hester. "I shouldn't think he's very well.

~Philip Reeve

But we're alive, and together, and we're going to be all right.

~Philip Reeve

I was fascinated by The Lord of the Rings from about the age of eight and that lasted well into my teens.

~Philip Reeve

An Engineer is no match for a Historian with his dander up!

~Philip Reeve

It was a dark, blustery afternoon in spring, and the city of London was chasing a small mining town across the dried-out bed of the old North Sea.
