Where love is concerned, too much is not even enough.

~Pierre Beaumarchais

As long as I don't write about the government, religion, politics, and other institutions, I am free to print anything.

~Pierre Beaumarchais

I quickly laugh at everything for fear of having to cry.

~Pierre Beaumarchais

It is not necessary to understand things in order to argue about them.

~Pierre Beaumarchais

Without the freedom to criticize, there is no true praise.

~Pierre Beaumarchais

Plays, gentlemen, are to their authors what children are to women: they cost more pain than they give pleasure.

~Pierre Beaumarchais

To obtain a woman who loves you, you must treat her as if she didn't.

~Pierre Beaumarchais

The same wind that extinguishes a light can set a brazier on fire.

~Pierre Beaumarchais

It is by no means necessary to understand things to speak confidently about them.

~Pierre Beaumarchais

Honest men love women; those who deceive them adore them.

~Pierre Beaumarchais

Can love and peace live in the same heart? Youth is unhappy because it is faced with this terrible choice; love without peace, or peace without love.

~Pierre Beaumarchais

Without pleasure man would live like a fool and soon die.

~Pierre Beaumarchais

To make a living, craftiness is better than learnedness.

~Pierre Beaumarchais

If a thing isn't worth saying, you sing it.

~Pierre Beaumarchais

Today if something is not worth saying, people sing it.

~Pierre Beaumarchais

Be commonplace and creeping and you'll be a success.

~Pierre Beaumarchais

A writer's inspiration is not just to create. He must eat three times a day.

~Pierre Beaumarchais

Vilify! Vilify! Some of it will always stick.

~Pierre Beaumarchais

Calumniate, calumniate; there will always be something which sticks.

~Pierre Beaumarchais

Nowadays what isn't worth saying is sung.

~Pierre Beaumarchais

I make myself laugh at everything, so that I do not weep.

~Pierre Beaumarchais

I would rather worry without need than live without heed.

~Pierre Beaumarchais
