Despite my vanity, I fear for my sanity.

~Pseudonymous Bosch

Generally speaking, books don't cause much harm. Except when you read them, that is. Then they cause all kinds of problems.

~Pseudonymous Bosch

Oh, talking is not so bad as that," said the Jester. "True, most people say only silly things when they speak. But it's easier to ignore them if you're saying silly things yourself.

~Pseudonymous Bosch

Only bad books have good endings. If a book is any good, it's ending is always bad - because you don't want the book to end.

~Pseudonymous Bosch

Xxxx xxxx x xxxx, xxxxx xxx x xxx xxx x xxxx. Xxxx xxxx xxxx x xxxxx xxxx xx Xxxxxxx.

~Pseudonymous Bosch

Whether it's chocolate or socks, the rule is the same; the darker the better.

~Pseudonymous Bosch

Some secrets are meant to be known- but once known you can never forget them.

~Pseudonymous Bosch

Not all novelists are power-hungry madman. Some are power-hungry madwomen.

~Pseudonymous Bosch

Truth is only stranger than fiction if you're a stranger to the truth. Which means you're either a liar or you're fictional.

~Pseudonymous Bosch

Very little in this world makes sense.

~Pseudonymous Bosch

Why did so many grown-ups want to be young, she wondered, when it took so long to grow old? It was like going on a million-mile road trip then wanting to turn around without getting out of the car.

~Pseudonymous Bosch

Being an author, is being a dictator. (in a good way)

~Pseudonymous Bosch

This book will not harm you unless someone throws it at you which is a possibility never to be discounted.

~Pseudonymous Bosch

Who needs to go somewhere when you can read about it.

~Pseudonymous Bosch

Better to cry wolf over and over than never to cry wolf at all.

~Pseudonymous Bosch

USE COMMON SENSE. If somebody offers you a thousand dollars for this book, chances are their motives are not pure. Then again, a thousand dollars is a lot of money. Take the money and run.

~Pseudonymous Bosch

Death is like an old dog. He always knows when you are at his door.

~Pseudonymous Bosch

You know, people always warn children about taking candy from strange adults. But they never warn us adults about taking candy from strange children.

~Pseudonymous Bosch

You must have your wits about you. No wandering minds allowed.

~Pseudonymous Bosch

...books were better than travel.

~Pseudonymous Bosch

The name of this book is mysterious.

~Pseudonymous Bosch

It was like walking into a treasure trove of books, hoarded by pirate librarians.

~Pseudonymous Bosch

No wandering minds allowed.

~Pseudonymous Bosch

If this was a normal cover for a normal book, I would tell it's FANTASTIC!GRIPPING! (according to all book covers they're fantastic and gripping)

~Pseudonymous Bosch

But remember what I said about forgetting what I said?

~Pseudonymous Bosch

Q: Why do you like chocolate so much? A: The answer, clearly, is because I've tasted chocolate.

~Pseudonymous Bosch

Cassandra, when you want to speak to me, you should say 'Excuse me, Mrs. Johnson.' Then wait until you get my attention." "Excuse me, Mrs. Johnson. Do I have your attention now?"

~Pseudonymous Bosch

This new condition, this unwilling silence, had fallen over him ten days ago. The day Cass had gone into the hospital. The day she had fallen into a coma.
