Every idol, if you scratch it, is a mirror. We worship ourselves.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

Thinking that education is something different from discipling our children is a sure sign that we have been 'educated' by the state. Education is discipleship.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

He didn't love me because I'm valuable. Because He loved me, I became valuable.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

To acknowledge that I am yet a sinner is not to deny that I am a saint but to acknowledge how I became one, by grace.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

Because He freely owned my guilt I may freely own my sin. Guilty as charged, and yet, not guilty at all.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

We do not homeschool to avoid wicked people. We homeschool so we wicked people can talk all day about the one Man who wasn't wicked.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

In abortion they are trying to destroy the last bastion of the image of God.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

The true gospel stands before the throne of God declaring, 'Jesus did it all.'

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

The One who knows the fullness of my sin loves me as my Father right now.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

God's pleasure with me is grounded in the accomplishment of Christ, not my own accomplishment.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

In fact, the Devil is delighted when we spend our time and energy defending the Bible, as long as we do not get around to actually reading the Bible.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

Our treasure is what we fear losing, and I fear that we fear losing our treasure. We are lovers of money.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

The gates of hell did not prevail before me. They will not prevail after me. The Kingdom, I pray will use me but it doesn't need me.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

The truth is that the sole reason we don't see the world all around us as magic is that we are jaded, too cool for the school of wonder.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

No matter what obeisance the state may demand, we who serve the King are free indeed.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

Things are not as they should be. Because He's not finished yet. They will be. Rest assured.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

Sanctification is the process in which we become more aware of how sinful we are.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

We do not fear the loss of God's favor, for either we have it not. We cannot lose it. What we fear is the loss of our idols.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

God's own foolishness is stronger than men. Do we believe that?

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

As Christians continue to be vilified let us continue to rejoice and be exceedingly glad. It means we are salt, light and with Him.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

Is it possible that we never feel grown-up because, as our capabilities increased with age, so increased our responsibilities?

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

We must remember who we are by remembering Whose we are.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

Nostalgia is the aching realization that you can't go back again. The longing, no matter how intense, can never be met.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

Regeneration is the cause of faith, not faith the cause of regeneration.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

I am not accusing God of sinning; I am suggesting that he created sin

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

The utter destruction of our culture isn't just around the corner. It has been here for some time.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

Creeds are definitions of what it means to be a Christian. They are fences that, albeit imperfectly, seek to separate sheep from goats.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

More evangelicals today will visit abortion mills as clients than as ambassadors of Jesus Christ.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

Now that Hillary Clinton is officially running for President I am officially not going to vote for her. It's official.

~R. C. Sproul, Jr.

Neither marriage's heart nor adventure are found in the banner days, those events we record and look back on. The glory is the ordinary.
