What if I was the sexual equivalent of popcorn? Suitable for light snacking only?

~Rachel Vincent

The worst memories stick with us, while the nice ones always seem to slip through our fingers.

~Rachel Vincent

Chocolate says "I'm sorry" so much better than words.

~Rachel Vincent

You don't know me. Don't ever think you know me. The only things you know about me are the things you made me do, and that illustrates your character, not mine.

~Rachel Vincent

I am not cute. I am the dreaded Grim Reaper. People fear me, you know. There's a whole song about it.

~Rachel Vincent

At least you don't need a prescription for tequila.

~Rachel Vincent

Stay for me. Stay with me. There will never be anyone else. Not in my bed. Not in my life. And not in my heart.

~Rachel Vincent

If she were going to die, I'd already be screaming. I'm a female bean sidhe. That's what we do.

~Rachel Vincent

You know, most girls sleep with a teddy bear or an extra pillow. But I gotta say, that's kinda hot.

~Rachel Vincent

...sometimes compassion is the greater part of honor.

~Rachel Vincent

... you just turned down the woman who put a marshmallow duck in your hot chocolate. I hope you feel like a real asshole now.

~Rachel Vincent

Why do they call it losing your virginity, anyway? It's Not Like I don't know where I left it." "You'd be surprised how many people don't.

~Rachel Vincent

It would be so much easier if there were a secret password, or handshake. Netherworld, open sesame! Yeah, that didn't work, either.

~Rachel Vincent

The moment the door opened I knew an ass-kicking was inevitable. Whether I'd be giving it or receiving it was still a bit of a mystery.

~Rachel Vincent

She wasn't feeling nothing. She was feeling too much. She was blocking it all out. That was a survival skill, and her still-beating heart was proof that it worked.

~Rachel Vincent

I want you. I want only you. I want all of you. But I'll take whatever you're ready to give.

~Rachel Vincent

Why is this so hard?â€• I whispered. His pulse leaped crazily at my admission. â€œEverything worth fighting for is hard.

~Rachel Vincent

10:38 AM - Third period. Kaylee has no class this period. I have no one to kill. Coincidence, or fate?

~Rachel Vincent

Nash has been the sun lighting up the horizon of my life, outshining everything else in my world. I'd thought once that he was too good to be true. Turns out I was right.

~Rachel Vincent

He was beyond gorgeous. But Eastlake High was full of pretty people who acted like total freaks. I blame the local water supply. Which was why I drank bottled water.

~Rachel Vincent

Think of it as a second opinion on his value. If he wasn't worth the fight, wouldn't she just let him go? Wouldn't you?

~Rachel Vincent

She just got out of the hospital. Why don't you go gossip behind her back, like decent people?

~Rachel Vincent

...don't judge your future based on others' mistakes.

~Rachel Vincent

I got swirling eyes and the capacity to shatter windows with my bare voice. Tod got teleportation and invisibility. The supernatural world is so far from fair.

~Rachel Vincent

Lit majors are not known for watching where they're going; most of us walk with our eyes in a book instead of on the path ahead.

~Rachel Vincent

Eastlake High makes Buffy's hellmouth look like a crack in the sidewalk.

~Rachel Vincent

I don't have you, and without you, it feels like what I do have doesn't matter.

~Rachel Vincent

Come on, Kaylee, before I choke on testosterone and melodrama.

~Rachel Vincent

He's like the Rasputin of reapers.

~Rachel Vincent

What if the house catches fire? • Roast marshmallows. And if it floods, you'll go down with the ship. If there's a tornado, I'll meet both you and this house in Oz, after my shift. Got it?

~Rachel Vincent

How is it wrong to put everything you have into getting what you want most in the world?

~Rachel Vincent

Like I'm going to pass up an opportunity to smack your cousin.

~Rachel Vincent

My aunt and overprivileged cousin only recognize two states of being: glitter and grunge. And if you weren't glitter, well, that only left one other option.

~Rachel Vincent

I'm searching for a shred of humanity in that shriveled tangle of arteries you call a heart.

~Rachel Vincent

Uh, yeah, I do. The scythe was a little tricky at first, butâ€”much like golfâ€”turns out it's all in the swing.

~Rachel Vincent

And anyway, considering that her mother dies and her boyfriend's spending a small fortune to get high off someone else's bad breath, I'd say Sophie's next in line for therapy.

~Rachel Vincent

Are you going to deliver whatever threat Avari sent you with, or are we going to have to start guessing?" Tod said. "I gotta warn you, I'm insanely good at charades.

~Rachel Vincent

Hey." Tod squeezed my hand to draw me out of my thoughts. "I think death looks good on you.

~Rachel Vincent

Should I assume the lure is a certain attractive young dead man?

~Rachel Vincent

You two are cracked," Tod snapped. My smile widened. "Says the undead man in love with the soulless pop star.

~Rachel Vincent

When you push someone too far, they will push back and they push hard.

~Rachel Vincent

I grabbed another. Aerosmith. Nope, can't throw classic Aerosmith. I snatched a copy of the Thompson Twins' greatest hits and chucked it at him.

~Rachel Vincent

Then strong, warm arms wrapped around me from behind. "I've got you," Tod whispered in my ear.

~Rachel Vincent

Exactly what part of that is supposed to make me feel better?" Though, honestly, hearing that she was jealous of me did make me feel a teeny, tiny bit better.

~Rachel Vincent

Can we save the live demo for later, please? Bean Sidhe in angst, here.

~Rachel Vincent

Kaylee, you're adding two and two and coming up with seven.

~Rachel Vincent

But I had no plans to end my own life, and accidents couldn't be predicted. Neither could murder, unless my aunt and uncle were planning to take me out themselves.

~Rachel Vincent

Tod laughed. He was always able to find the humour in even the creepiest situations. I'd thought that it was an undead thing, until I became a member of the undead. Then I realized it was a Tod-thing.

~Rachel Vincent

A smart woman would have shut up. Did I? Hell no. Intelligence is overrated anyway.

~Rachel Vincent

You thought you could figure that out online? Somehow I don't think hellions are much into social networking.

~Rachel Vincent

Careful, pot," Tod said. "Someone might notice your resemblance to the kettle.

~Rachel Vincent

But I'll be fine. I'll be with Tod. He's a good guy, you know." He just hides it under all the sarcasm and curls.

~Rachel Vincent

I don't want to wear your dad's clothes. He hates me." "You'd rather wear mine?" Nash scowled.

~Rachel Vincent

I love you, Kaylee. More than I've ever loved anyone. More than I will ever love anyone. If I could freeze this moment in time and never have to let you go, I would do it without a second thought.

~Rachel Vincent

But my hands are in the right place." "Heart," I corrected. "Your heart's in the right place." "Yeah, but my hands are in an even better place." And so they were.

~Rachel Vincent

You're not lost, Kaylee. You can't ever be lost, because I'll always know where you are. And if I'm not there with you, I'm on my way, and nothing standing between us will be standing for very long.

~Rachel Vincent

My shirt got torn in a fight. Yours evidently has a fast-release tab.

~Rachel Vincent

Of every moment I've ever not-lived through, this one is the best

~Rachel Vincent

Change your mind about playing doctor?" "No, but I hear candy-striper uniforms are pretty cute.

~Rachel Vincent

Sometimes I suspected Ryan was merely visiting the real world, on vacation from his permanent residence in la-la land.

~Rachel Vincent

I can't believe they even bothered filling that faculty position again. They might as well rename the class Defense Against the Dark Arts. I mean, seriously, who would answer an ad for this job?

~Rachel Vincent

And I met Madeline's necromancer. His name's Luca." "A death detector?" Tod made a face. "That's creepy." "It gets weirder. He's dating Sophie." "On purpose?"

~Rachel Vincent

I'm confiscating your hair dryerâ€”you've fried your brain.

~Rachel Vincent

There's an us?â€• â€œAs far as I'm concernedâ€!â€• He leaned forward, his mouth inches from mine, and my pulse spiked. â€œThere's nothing but us.

~Rachel Vincent

Ask for the impossible, then settle instead for what you really wanted in the first place.

~Rachel Vincent

Meow, Meow, Motherfucker.

~Rachel Vincent

Whatever your weakness, there's a hellion to exploit it.

~Rachel Vincent

So, did the costume come with a condom, or is that sold separately?

~Rachel Vincent

The school sent you flowers. I'm sure that totally makes up for the fact that they hired the psychotic, soul-stealing pedophile who murdered you in your own home.

~Rachel Vincent

So, we wait until tomorrow night, and when you say the word, I cross over and haul you both out. Right? That's it?" "With any luck, yes." Luck? We were depending on luck? Nash is so screwed.

~Rachel Vincent

I think we should all earn our place in the world. [...] We owe the world something. We owe the world everything.

~Rachel Vincent

It was an addiction. A pointless, self-destructive addiction. But really, is there any other kind?

~Rachel Vincent

Not that I don't appreciate the rescue," Holt said. "But I'm forced to ask, in the interest of self-preservation ... exactly how well armed are you right now?

~Rachel Vincent

He went down like a cheerleader after prom.

~Rachel Vincent

Come near me and I'll rip your wings off and beat you with them.

~Rachel Vincent

I'm dead, not impotent. Nasty rumors like that must be squashed before they gain momentum. Feel free to emphasize how very functional I am.

~Rachel Vincent

Great. I'm psychotic and sparkly.

~Rachel Vincent

Maybe I won't look so bad when you're not standing next to me.

~Rachel Vincent

I couldn't see who swam in the darkness, who wore shadows like a second skin.

~Rachel Vincent

There were a million What Ifs that could have stopped the whole thing. A million things I wished I'd done differently. But in the end, I was left with what actually happened. With my mistakes and his.

~Rachel Vincent

Relief washed over me like that first air-conditioned breeze on a hot summer day.

~Rachel Vincent

Kaylee do you know why you are here?" "Yeah. Because the doors are locked.

~Rachel Vincent

I'd just stepped out of the kiddie pool and into the deep end, with no floaties. And drowning was not an option.

~Rachel Vincent

I don't hate it. It does no good to hate something you can't change.

~Rachel Vincent

Survival strategy. If you're not careful, this place will eat you alive, and Kaylee's like bait for the beasts.

~Rachel Vincent

Together, we'd take crazy to a whole new level. ~Tod

~Rachel Vincent

Leave the door open," my dad said, the second most common warning in his arsenal. Right behind, "Nash, go home.

~Rachel Vincent

Have you and Nash both lost your minds? This is really a very simple concept--one that you taught me! Hellion equals evil. Period!" -Kaylee to Tod

~Rachel Vincent

That's because Tod never brings anything but death and bad advice," I snapped. "That's not true." Tod tried to grin, "Sometimes I bring pizza.

~Rachel Vincent

I held her tighter, just because I could. Because she was fierce, and beautiful, and mind.

~Rachel Vincent

Alec rolled beautiful brown eyes. "No fair playing the death card." "No fair having it to play.

~Rachel Vincent

This seems headed into girl-fight territory," Tod said. "Should I make popcorn?

~Rachel Vincent

I wanted more firsts with Tod. But all I had left was a handful of lasts.

~Rachel Vincent

I should have mixed something stronger than Coke floats.

~Rachel Vincent

So ... will you stay with me until it's over? Please?" "Kaylee, I would do anything for the girl who granted my dying wish.

~Rachel Vincent

I'd learned that my mother was a badass in disguise. She was Van Helsing in an apron and heels, andâ€”at least for the time beingâ€”I couldn't think of a single thing cooler than that.

~Rachel Vincent

What matters is the face you show the world, not the quaking mess behind it.

~Rachel Vincent

If you live in the dark long enough, you start to forget what light looks like.

~Rachel Vincent

Congratulations. Your official super-nerd badge is in the mail.

~Rachel Vincent

And the truth was that most of Nash's friends weren't that bad. Their girlfriends were another story. Speaking of bloodthirsty hyenas...
