War is the Health of the State.

~Randolph Bourne

If you are not an idealist by the time you are twenty you have no heart, but if you are still an idealist by the time you are thirty, you don't have a head.

~Randolph Bourne

One keeps healthy in wartime...by a vigorous assertion of values in which war has no part.

~Randolph Bourne

Few people even scratch the surface, much less exhaust the contemplation of their own experience.

~Randolph Bourne

Society is one vast conspiracy for carving one into the kind of statue likes, and then placing it in the most convenient niche it has.

~Randolph Bourne

A good discussion increases the dimensions of everyone who takes part.

~Randolph Bourne

We can easily become as much slaves to precaution as we can to fear.

~Randolph Bourne

Diplomacy is a disguised war, in which states seek to gain by barter and intrigue, by the cleverness of arts, the objectives which they would have to gain more clumsily by means of war.

~Randolph Bourne

He who mounts a wild elephant goes where the elephant goes.

~Randolph Bourne

Culture, like the kingdom of heaven, lies within us, and not in foreign galleries and books.

~Randolph Bourne

All we can ever do in the way of good to people is to encourage them to do good to themselves.

~Randolph Bourne

With the shock of war the state comes into its own again.

~Randolph Bourne

A cultivation of the powers of one's personality is one of the greatest needs of life.
