It sounds trite, but I like telling stories.

~Rebecca Hall

As a child I loved ghost stories.

~Rebecca Hall

If you act scared, your body produces adrenaline.

~Rebecca Hall

There are people all over the world who like to write fan letters in the voice of their pet: 'Hello, my name is Fifi and I'm a labrador and I think you're great. Paw paw!'

~Rebecca Hall

Lentil dhal is the only thing I can cook.

~Rebecca Hall

A floor length backless black sequined dress would be my dream dress. As for my dream date - that would have to be a young Marlon Brando!

~Rebecca Hall

I'm very nerdy about my music, and I like interrogating people about what they put on playlists.

~Rebecca Hall

I think acting can be very frustrating, and there's no experience that doesn't make you a better actor. So people may choose to explore their other talents.

~Rebecca Hall

I don't want to massively slag off Marvel, I don't. Because they have just employed a woman to be their superhero, and so hallelujah.

~Rebecca Hall

No family is sane, is it?

~Rebecca Hall

When we are aligned, everything can flow, and life and yoga becomes effortless.

~Rebecca Hall

I was a really pretentious teenager.

~Rebecca Hall

I quite enjoy cooking but I'm not consistent. I can't follow the recipe book. If something goes well, I'll never make it again, which is completely stupid. It's a one-shot kind of deal.

~Rebecca Hall

You either are a good director or you're not.

~Rebecca Hall

Of course, any job is scary, but you tackle the challenges head on and hope for the best.

~Rebecca Hall

I've never been desperate to please my father.

~Rebecca Hall

I've played an awful lot of repressed people.

~Rebecca Hall

I don't think that anyone can really understand anything until it's understood on a cellular, emotional level.

~Rebecca Hall

I'm not consciously avoiding doing a lot of period drama, but I don't really seek it out either.

~Rebecca Hall

I was the kid that grew up watching Bette Davis films.

~Rebecca Hall

My childhood was very colourful, and I am very good friends with both my parents. We have no secrets.

~Rebecca Hall

I try and avoid thinking of strategy and I tend to stick to my gun of doing things that I like and try to avoid things that I "should" be doing, and stay true to that.

~Rebecca Hall

My mum's American. She's from Detroit.

~Rebecca Hall

I think acting can be very frustrating, and there's no experience that doesn't make you a better actor.

~Rebecca Hall

I don't think that theater is the higher medium, that it's better than film.

~Rebecca Hall

I suppose the reason why I like acting is because I'm curious about human nature, and the less I know about a character on the page, instinctively, in a way, the better.

~Rebecca Hall

Twin Peaks' is my favorite American TV show.

~Rebecca Hall

When I was 22, I thought I couldn't wear heels because of my height.

~Rebecca Hall

I can't remember a time when I didn't want to be an actor. It has just always been an inevitability on some level.

~Rebecca Hall

One aspect of my mum's personality that has influenced me is her love of Hollywood and the golden era of black-and-white films.

~Rebecca Hall

I always look for contradiction in a character.

~Rebecca Hall

A good piece of art raises questions.

~Rebecca Hall

Sometimes I can spend months doing things to make sure that my instincts work correctly, but ultimately it's still instinctive.

~Rebecca Hall

I've always had horrible Valentine's Days.

~Rebecca Hall

The idea that fear can manipulate people and you can use fear in the media to get what you want is happening right now. I think it has a lot of relevance between 2017 and 70's.

~Rebecca Hall

If pressed, I would say I feel British. It's where I grew up and where I choose to live, the culture that I love, but I feel perfectly at home in America, I don't feel like a tourist or anything.

~Rebecca Hall

I don't like talking about myself, if I'm honest.

~Rebecca Hall

I think for a long time it seemed like working in an art form and being a feminist meant portraying women in a perfect, angelic light. And there's nothing feminist about that.

~Rebecca Hall

There's always going to be a separate version of you that people will create, and you have no control over it.
