Make it a point to be around those with positive energy - people who want what's best for you, people who understand your goals and priorities.

~Rebecca Lobo

My goals have gone from being an all-star to just being able to play basketball. I always took for granted that I could play. Now I know what a gift it is.

~Rebecca Lobo

I think every time I go in a game, I have added something positive. I have gotten a rebound or made a defensive play. That is what I try to focus on.

~Rebecca Lobo

People have to understand what my game is. It's not all about numbers. There's a bigger picture here. I don't create off the dribble. I rely on my teammates; my role is to set screens and get rebounds

~Rebecca Lobo

Femininity and sport can go together.

~Rebecca Lobo

I'm happy and at peace with where I am at life.

~Rebecca Lobo

I like being on the floor, listening in on the huddles. It makes me feel like a player again.

~Rebecca Lobo

Winning an Olympic gold medal is like nothing else.

~Rebecca Lobo

Basketball is always a piece of my life, but never the centerpiece.

~Rebecca Lobo

Ridiculous stuff happens when I travel.

~Rebecca Lobo

I am being taken care of by a higher being than myself or my coaches or my training staff.

~Rebecca Lobo

I have no regrets about my career or retiring. Not once have I thought 'Gosh, I wish I was back on the court.

~Rebecca Lobo

I've also always known that I wouldn't be playing for the N.B.A.

~Rebecca Lobo

Petty things don't bother me as much as they used to.
