Al Gore's performances could be a case study in abnormal-psychology classes.

~Rich Lowry

Bill Clinton was a liberal who could appeal to conservative-leaning Bubba voters.

~Rich Lowry

Calculation has its advantages, but no one likes naked calculation.

~Rich Lowry

There's no wobble in Bush. If anything, the opposite. Right after hello, the next words out of his mouth are: I've never been more convinced that the decisions I made are the right decisions.

~Rich Lowry

Comedians still make fun of Bill's out-of-control appetites, but with Hillary, the mockery is about how she lets nothing be out of control.

~Rich Lowry

Because liberalism typically doesn't sell in American presidential politics, liberal candidates tend to run as culturally conservative centrists.

~Rich Lowry

Clinton's fakery was so deft and deeply ingrained that it was impossible to tell where it ended and the real Bill Clinton began. This constituted a kind of political genius.

~Rich Lowry

Message to Obama: Fighting the Clinton machine won't be as easy as picking up favorable press clips.

~Rich Lowry

Almost all political campaigns involve falsity and playacting.

~Rich Lowry

In person, George W. Bush is extremely forceful. He has a restless energy when he sits in a chair, and nearly leaps out of it when making certain points.

~Rich Lowry

Yes, this is 21st-century America. Where we have better means to treat mental illness than ever before, but choose to let the insane people decide to get it or not.

~Rich Lowry

You have to check out 'March of the Penguins'. Penguins are the really ideal example of monogamy.

~Rich Lowry

It is Hillary's lot in life not to be able to fake it well...

~Rich Lowry

John Kerry couldn't even order a Philly cheesesteak properly.

~Rich Lowry

Al Gore adopted three utterly different personas in three national presidential debates.

~Rich Lowry

It's worth remembering George W. Bush, Barack Obama also came in thinking they had the magic key to better, warmer relations with Russia; those efforts ended in tears.

~Rich Lowry

Ultimately Rex Tillerson will reflect [Donald] Trump's policy towards Russia, which will be friendly up right up to the point of time it isn't.

~Rich Lowry

No matter the good news anywhere else, these nuke-hungry rogue states will provide grounds for bad-mouthing Bush foreign policy.

~Rich Lowry

Clearly [Donald] Trump likes the way business executives and generals think and talk much more than policy professionals.

~Rich Lowry

Any [political] party without principles is rudderless and passive.

~Rich Lowry

A flag doesn't cause someone to sit in a prayer meeting for an hour, and then stand up and shoot people.

~Rich Lowry

There's no point trying to sugar-coat this or get Jesuitical about it. Yes, Russia tried to manipulate our election. It's appalling. Yes, it should be investigated and taken seriously.

~Rich Lowry

[Donald Trump] campaigned on an enormous tax cut, and he campaigned on a deregulatory agenda.

~Rich Lowry

Multiculturalism, if its logic is fully played out, is the ideology of national suicide.

~Rich Lowry

The case against Jeff Sessions was threadbare three decades ago. It's based on hearsay and innuendo and a joke he made about the Klan.

~Rich Lowry

The debate over troop levels will rage for years; it is...beside the point.

~Rich Lowry

[Donald Trump] campaigned on repealing Obamacare.

~Rich Lowry

France will always be France no matter what, but America involves striving toward an ideal.

~Rich Lowry

Parents are the most likely to be victims of the violence of their mentally ill children.

~Rich Lowry

If you think the country is a bastion only of nasty tendencies and racism and oppression, that is anti-American.

~Rich Lowry

I think just focusing on the wealth of these cabinet picks misunderstands [Donald] Trump's economic strategy here, which is going to be equal parts traditional Republican economics.

~Rich Lowry

There is simply no substitute for forceful American leadership. Sometimes the best way to get allies is to be willing to forge ahead alone.

~Rich Lowry

Contemporary Democrats are people who can't stand the idea that someone, somewhere is experiencing good news.

~Rich Lowry

I think likelier targets are [Steve] Mnuchin, the Treasury pick. When you look at his dealings during the financial crisis, that's going to be a target rich environment, and [Rex] Tillerson.

~Rich Lowry

Arizona seeks only to enforce the nominal immigration policy of the United States. Perhaps the federal government should try it sometime.
