I do not know beneath what sky nor on what seas shall be thy fate; I only know it shall be high, I only know it shall be great.

~Richard Hovey

I am sick of four walls and a ceiling I have need of the sky, I have business with the grass.

~Richard Hovey

Spring in the world! And all things are made new!

~Richard Hovey

Ye who made war that your ships Should lay to at the beck of no nation, Make war now on Murder, that slips The leash of her hounds of damnation; Ye who remembered the Alamo, Remember the Maine!

~Richard Hovey

Our cheer goes back to them, the valiant dead! Laurels and roses on their graves to-day, lilies and laurels over them we lay, and violets o'er each unforgotten head.

~Richard Hovey

And you prate of the wealth of nations, as if it were bought and sold, The wealth of nations is men, not silk and cotton and gold.

~Richard Hovey

For 't is always fair weather When good fellows get together With a stein on the table and a good song ringing clear.

~Richard Hovey

I am fevered with the sunset, I am fretful with the bay, For the wander-thirst is on me And my soul is in Cathay.

~Richard Hovey

The East and the West in the spring of the world shall blend / As a man and a woman that plight / Their troth in the warm spring night.

~Richard Hovey

Who would not rather flounder in the fight than not have known the glory of the fray?

~Richard Hovey

Nor love they least Who strike with right good will To vanquish ill
And fight God's battle upward from the beast.

~Richard Hovey

East, to the dawn, or west or south or north! Loose rein upon the neck of - and forth!

~Richard Hovey

Love seeks a guerdon; friendship is as God, Who gives and asks no payment.

~Richard Hovey

How loving is the Lord God and how strong withal!

~Richard Hovey

The great white cold walks abroad!

~Richard Hovey

Fair weather weddings make fair weather lives.

~Richard Hovey

There is no sorrow like a love denied. Nor any joy like love that has its will.
