The most precious jewels are not made of stone, but of flesh.

~Robert Ludlum

I have always preferred conflict of individuals over the battle of extreme ideologies.

~Robert Ludlum

There'll come a moment when you think you can make it, and you'll try.

~Robert Ludlum

Hope is the only thing stronger than fear. A little hope is effective. A lot of hope is dangerous. A spark is just fine as long as its contained.

~Robert Ludlum

You're on your own now. You are not helpless. You will find your way.

~Robert Ludlum

Well, let me tell you, gentlemen, the games of the devil are not restricted to those confined to hell. Others can play them.

~Robert Ludlum

Credo quia absurdum - I believe because it is absurd.

~Robert Ludlum

What a man can't remember doesn't exist for him.

~Robert Ludlum

Hate and love are essentially the same in that the person who loves is as easily manipulated as a person who hates

~Robert Ludlum

A man's weaknesses may intrude on his faith but they do not diminish it.

~Robert Ludlum

Bourne concentrated on rest and mobility. From somewhere in his forgotten past he understood that recovery depended upon both and he applied rigid discipline to both.

~Robert Ludlum

Blessed are the flexible for they will not allow themselves to become bent out of shape!

~Robert Ludlum

It was important to keep moving. Certain struggles continued. Others had to be brought to a close. The wisdom was in deciding which.

~Robert Ludlum

I try as best I can to enter the realm of nuances of human behavior.

~Robert Ludlum

The success of any trap lies in its fundamental simplicity. The reverse trap by the nature of its single complication must be swift and simpler still.

~Robert Ludlum

How gratifying to be there when arrogance collapses. How much more so to be the instrument. (Alfred Gillette)

~Robert Ludlum

Characterization is integral to the theatrical experience.

~Robert Ludlum

Learn always but never appear to be learning.

~Robert Ludlum

Life is extremely complicated.

~Robert Ludlum

The cruelest thing you can do to a person who's living in panic is to offer him or her hope that turns out false. When the crash comes its intolerable.

~Robert Ludlum

Sundown. The distressed sloop, its mainmast shattered by lightning, its sails ripped by the winds of the open sea, drifted into the small, quiet beach of a private island in the Lesser Antilles

~Robert Ludlum

You know, Mr. Webb, you have two commands you use with irritating frequency. 'Move' and 'Let's go.'

~Robert Ludlum

...Summer nights held a special kind of loneliness that gave rise to strange imaginings. One walked the beach alone and thought too much.

~Robert Ludlum

I mean, we're all trying to find out who the hell we are, aren't we?

~Robert Ludlum

Men and women walked casually about as they did on the main floor, every now and then stopping one another, exchanging pleasantries or scraps of relevantly irrelevant information. Gossip.

~Robert Ludlum

I see things and I hear things I do not understand. I'm a skilled, resourceful... vegetable!

~Robert Ludlum

Hope, perhaps the most dangerous of all emotions and perhaps the most necessary.

~Robert Ludlum

Visions of one powerful scene after another parade across his inner screen, each exploding with drama and meaning

~Robert Ludlum

A theater person should know what holds an audience and what does not.

~Robert Ludlum

The easiest thing in the world is to convince yourself that you're right. As one grows old, it is easier still.

~Robert Ludlum

He wasn't smart enough to see it, said Jason Bourne. He couldn't think geometrically.

~Robert Ludlum

Greater economic power will be in the hands of too few.

~Robert Ludlum

Perhaps conscience did not always produce cowards. Sometimes it made a man feel better about himself.
